Blaze Sweeps Furniture Store and Exchange; Firemen Rescue Employees.

Fire starting shortly after noon today, destroyed the Collinsville telephone exchange, putting 1400 telephones in Collinsville, Caseyville and Glen Carbon out of commission.

The blaze started in Freedman Bros. furniture store, on the first floor of the two-story building at Main and Center streets, in which the telephone exchange was located. The fire swept through the furniture stock so quickly that exit from the exchange and the Prudential Life Insurance Co. offices on the second floor were cut off before all employees could get out of the building. Firemen assisted the trapped employees down ladders to safety.

The two Collinsville fire companies are fighting to prevent the flames from spreading through the entire business block, which includes a cigar store, candy kitchen, cleaning and dyeing establishment and a grocery. The disabling of the telephone system prevented the early calling of aid from nearby towns. The cause of the fire has not been determined.

The telephone exchange was owned and operated by the Illinois Bell Telephone Co.

ERICKSON, MONTANA, SWORN AS SUCCESSOR OF WALSH

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 20.—Ignoring a protest that his appointment involved a political trade, the Senate today administered the oath to former Gov. John E. Erickson to succeed the late Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana.

Erickson was escorted to the Vice-President's desk by his colleague, Senator Burton K. Wheeler. As Wheeler called the attention of the Senate to Erickson's presence in the chamber and his desire to take the oath, Chairman George of the Elections Committee rose but kept silent.

On George's desk lay a letter, and a telegram from Judge George M. Bourquin of Helena, Mont., challenging Erickson's right to the seat.

Bourquin charged that Erickson resigned as Governor after agreeing with "Lieutenant-Governor Conney" that he would be named Senator and Conney become Governor.

Vice-President Garner, to whom copies of Bourquin's letter and telegram also had been addressed, had them read to the Senate, after the new Senator was sworn.

MANCHESTER BANK AND THE CHIPPEWA TRUST CO. REOPEN

Water Tower Bank, Which Had Not Received License, Is Merged With North St. Louis Trust.

BANKS IN CITY IN FULL OPERATION

Application of Lafayette South Side Only One Awaiting Action—Conservators for Four Others

The Manchester Bank, Chouteau and Vandeventer avenues, and the Chipewa Trust Co., Broadway and Second streets, reopened for general business today under licenses received from the Treasury Department through the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis.

The Water Tower Bank, which had not received a license, was merged, effective today, with North St. Louis Trust Co., licensed last week.

The consolidated bank opened this morning in the quarters of the Water Tower Bank, Grand and Florissant avenues, and has adopted the name and character of North St. Louis Trust Co. These developments make the total of reopened banks in St. Louis to former Gov. John E. Erickson to succeed the late Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana.

Erickson was escorted to the Vice-President's desk by his colleague, Senator Burton K. Wheeler. As Wheeler called the attention of the Senate to Erickson's presence in the chamber and his desire to take the oath, Chairman George of the Elections Committee rose but kept silent.

A Hopi Indian Beauty

DAWNING, NINETEEN-YEAR-OLD Hopi maiden, voted the prettiest girl of her race by members of the winter desert colony at Palm Springs, Cal. She holds to the dress of her ancestors, lending contrast to the ultra modern desert garb of the white debutantes of the resort, where she lives with other members of her tribe.

20 TREATED FOR DOG AND CAT BITES IN DAY

Two Weeks Total 230; Animal Dies in Convulsions After Attacking Pair.

Twenty persons applied at the municipal clinic this morning for treatment for dog or cat bites, bringing the total of such cases during the last 14 days to 230.

Nine of those bitten last week were victims of rabid dogs, examination of the animals' brains at the Health Department laboratory disclosed. Two other cases were classified as doubtful, but the victims were advised to take Pasteur treatment as a precaution against rabies.

Nine persons, including three children, were bitten yesterday. Included among the victims were Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Jones, 3205 S. Dakota street, who were bitten by their pet cat, which leaped onto their bed and hit their hands and faces before they could protect themselves. The cat died in convulsions half an hour later. Its carcass was sent to the municipal laboratory for examination for rabies.

Mrs. Florine Erker, 2337 Malden Lane, bitten on the ankle by a neighbor's dog a week ago, became hysterical last night and was taken to City Hospital. Physicians said there were no symptoms of rabies, and said she apparently is suffering only from hysteria. She was treated by a physician immediately after being bitten.

Humane Society employees started a third busy week this morning with 90 calls from dog owners who want their pets destroyed because of fear of rabies. The Humane Society does not ordinarily operate on Sundays, but one driver was on duty yesterday, making seven emergency calls. Several of the dogs appeared to be definitely suffering from rabies, the driver reported.

Seven crews of dog catchers were combing streets and alleys today in a final campaign against stray dogs. Seventy-five dogs were killed at the city pound this morning. Health Commissioner Starkloff said the campaign would be continued until all stray dogs have been caught.

Mrs. J. M. Hutchinson, Health Commissioner of Kirkwood, announced residents of Kirkwood may have their dogs inoculated against rabies from 3 p. m. to 6 p. m. Wednesday and Friday at the city garage, Fillmore and Monroe avenues. A fee of $1.25 will be charged. The step was precautionary. Mrs. Hutchinson said, as the town has been free thus far of rabid dogs. A quarantine on them was put into effect March 7.

Police heads and Mayors of towns in St. Clair County will meet tomorrow night at Belleville to discuss precautions against rabid dogs.

SAYS HE SHOT MAN TRYING TO FORCE WAY THROUGH DOOR

Peter Vassel Fires Through Door and Wounds Charles Lafferty.

Charles Lafferty, 35 years old, 257 Pardella avenue, Luxembourg, was taken to City Hospital last night suffering from a bullet wound of the right side of the forehead.

Peter Vassel, steelworker, residing at 1904 S. Broadway, according to police, said he had shot Lafferty with a revolver when Lafferty hammered on the back door of his home and insisted on entering. Vassel said he fired through the door.

TEAR GAS IS USED TO PREVENT BREAK FROM SANITARIUM

Police Called to Subdue Two Patients Who Barricaded Selves at Hospital for Insane.

Tear gas was used by policemen last night to subdue two unruly patients of the City Sanitarium at 5300 Arsenal street who had barricaded themselves in a fourth-floor room and were attempting to escape by a rope of knotted blankets.

A radio call broadcast after a call for help from the superintendent, Dr. Raymond C. Bagley, took 40 policemen to the hospital for the insane at 9 o'clock. They were conducted to a ward on the fourth floor where, after a survey of the situation, Detective Sergeant James Mitchell asked for and received permission to use tear gas.

Six tear bombs were thrown into the room over a transom. The patients within five minutes began to raise to huddle but refused to come out. Finally the door was forced and they were removed from the room.

Hospital attendants told the police the disturbance was caused by two of the patients, Jack de la Casa, an ex-convict and former wrestler, who was lodged in the sanitarium while awaiting trial on a robbery charge and Raymond Jones, 2621 Salena street. Both were placed in padded cells. The other three patients, who had taken no part in the disturbance, began to return to the ward after the tear gas had been cleared out.

Examination of the ward showed that de la Casa and Jones had knotted together blankets and had wrenched some of the bars from the window during the time they had the door locked. A mattress also had been set on fire and still was smoldering when policemen entered the room. Damage to the sanitarium building and equipment was estimated by Dr. Bagley at $100.

KAEMMERER'S TRIAL AWAITS RULING BY SUPREME COURT

Postponed to Enable Defense to Get Decision on Jurisdiction.

Trial of Attorney Burt A. Kaemmerer and three others, charged with the murder of a woman, was postponed today to enable the defense to obtain a Supreme Court ruling on whether the Circuit Court has jurisdiction.

Charged with Kaemmerer are J. Carlyle Hobart, employer of Kaemmerer's law firm; Arnold F. Hart, who has described himself as a "public enemy"; and Samuel Wolff, 1906 Union boulevard.

Their attorney, Roy Hamilton of Hannibal, Mo., in a motion filed when the case was called for trial, contended the Court lacked jurisdiction because the Circuit Court early yesterday for a continuance of the head suffered in a fight which followed an automobile collision in Forest Park. According to police, Ghermer was knocked down by George Gerstaecker, of Overland, who was a passenger in an automobile struck from the rear by Ghermer's machine.

CHILD AUTO VICTIM

ROBERT MOLLMAN.

BOYS, 3 AND 5, DIE OF AUTO INJURIES

Robert Mollman and Ernest Stewart Jr. Struck by Machines Friday.

Two children died yesterday of injuries suffered Friday when struck by automobiles.

Robert, 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mollman, 2128A Nebraska avenue, died at St. Anthony's Hospital last night of a skull injury and a fractured leg suffered when he ran down while crossing the street near his home. The driver was Eugene Speichinger, a chauffeur, 2818 Ohio avenue.

Ernest Stewart Jr., 5, Negro, died at City Hospital No. 2 of fractures of the skull and legs suffered when he hit in front of his home, 2650 Lucas avenue. Wirt A. Warren, a student, 4642 Lindell boulevard, was the driver.

STATE BEER LAW LICENSES EASY TO GET, HARD TO LOSE

Officials Find Permits Can Be Revoked Only When Brewer or Dealer Is Convicted of Violation.

By CURTIS A. BETTS, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, March 20.—Attorney-General McKittick has directed his office to draw up the forms of applications and permits for the manufacture and sale of beer under the new State law that will be in effect on April 1, it was learned at the Department of Justice today.

The Missouri beer law is now in effect, but is inoperative until the Federal beer bill is passed and becomes effective. The Missouri law requires the Attorney-General to have all forms prepared within 20 days after the signing of the act by the Governor. The act was signed March 15, so McKittick must have his forms ready before April 8.

C. H. Munell, State Food and Drug Commissioner, under whose direction breweries will be licensed to manufacture and dealers to sell beer, said today that he would confer with the Attorney-General on the licensing machinery, but that so far he had not mapped out an organization.

Under the law, Munell has the power to issue licenses, but no power of revocation, except in the case of a brewer or dealer who is convicted of a violation of the beer law.

Cities are prohibited in the act from taxing dealers for the sale of beer and the question as to whether a city will have the right to impose regulations is an undecided question.

Applicants for licenses must state under oath in their applications that they are American citizens and that they will not permit intoxicating liquor of any kind having an alcoholic content of more than legal percentage by weight to "be kept, stored or secreted" on their premises.

While the law makes illegal the sale of beer to be drunk at a bar or counter, and while it prohibits sale in any room which has "the appearance of a saloon, such as 'cocktail' there is no power granted any official for revocation of the dealer's license for violation of the provisions. The law declares it to be unlawful to sell beer at a bar or in a room having a bar, mirror or other old-time saloon fixture, but fails to designate such offenses to be misdemeanors or to provide a penalty.

Neither the Food and Drug Commissioner nor any other State official appears from the act to have any authority beyond the issuance of licenses. The Enforcement of violation of its provisions will be solely within the discretion of the Prosecuting Attorney. There is no authorization for revocation of license prior to conviction.

WOUNDS SELF WITH SHOTGUN WHEN SEATED IN AUTO

Man Hands Note to Passenger, Asking That His Wife Be Notified.

A man who said he was Lester Steinkopf, 2519A North Twelfth street, shot himself in the abdomen with a shotgun this afternoon while seated in an automobile in the 9000 block of South Broadway. He was taken to City Hospital in a critical condition.

To a passerby who came to his aid he handed a note asking that his wife be informed and referring to a letter in his overcoat pocket. The letter asked that three other letters in a pocket of his suit be delivered to his wife, his mother and an undertaker.

POLICE VETERAN DEAD

CAPT. SETH SINGLETON

CAPT. SETH SINGLETON IS FOUND DEAD IN BED

80-Year-Old Head of Police School for Recruits Succumbs in Sleep.

Capt. Seth Singleton, retired, 80-year-old director of the police training school for recruits, was found dead in bed this morning by members of his family at his home at 5529 Cabanne avenue.

Over his protest he had been ordered to his home by Chief Clerk last Tuesday because of a severe cold.

A college graduate and former school teacher and merchant, Capt. Singleton joined the police force as a turnkey in May, 1897. He was then 44 years old. In the following month he was made a probationary patrolman and assigned as secretary to the late Chief of Detectives William Desmond.

Two years later he was promoted to a Sergeant and assigned to precinct duty. When Rolla Wells was elected Mayor in 1901 he was assigned to duty in the Mayor's office.

At that time he was a picturesque figure, tall, spare and erect, with a luxuriant mustache and a carefully trimmed imperial, an unusual setting, even at that time, for the uniform of many brass buttons, and the white, mouse-colored hat worn by Police Sergeants.

He was made a Lieutenant in 1907 and a Captain in 1913. In February, 1930, he was retired, but was re-employed almost immediately as director of the training school, a post to which his education and long police experience especially fitted him.

He is survived by his widow, two sons, a daughter and several grandchildren.

A Million "Runny" Lemon Pies

Till I Found This Delicious 2-Step Filling That Never Fails!

"I WAS so discouraged I spent hours in the kitchen trying to make good lemon pie for Bill, but it nearly always turned out a mess. Then I saw one day that Prudence Penny recommends Kosto for lemon-pie filling. I wasn't very hopeful, but I decided to try it. The very night I served what Bill called 'the greatest lemon pie ever made!' 'Good-bye to all the old mixing, measuring and watching!' The Kosto recipe is so simple it can't go wrong. All I do is take a 10c package of Kosto, lemon flavor, add water, bring to a boil, and when partly cooled pour into the baked pie-shell. In 10 minutes I have the supremely perfect lemon-pie filling—just firm enough, and such a wonderful fresh lemon flavor!" Kosto, chocolate flavor, mixed with milk, makes equally perfect chocolate pie filling—rich, creamy, smooth as velvet. And served in sherry glass, Kosto makes delicious puddings. Especially fine for children. 5c single servings for 10c. At all grocers.

HOOVER MILITARY AID KILLED WITH FATHER IN PLANE

Lieut. James A. Willis Recently Had Returned to Flying Duty From White House Post.

By the Associated Press.

PETERSBURG, Va., March 20.—Three flyers were killed yesterday when their army transport plane crashed into a roadside field near Petersburg and burst into flames.

The victims were identified as Lieut. James A. Willis Jr. of Bolling Field, Washington, his father, Maj. James A. Willis, and Maj. John A. Parker. Maj. Willis and Maj. Parker were connected with the Judge Advocate General's department. Lieut. Willis was a former aide at the White House.

Lieut. Willis who was dragged from the wreckage by a Negro farmer was identified immediately by letters on his person, but his passengers were charred beyond recognition. Their identity was disclosed by Bolling Field officials who were notified of the crash.

Officials said the ship was reported flying in a fog toward Washington from Pope Field, Fayetteville, N. C.

Among the several theories of the cause of the accident was the belief of Capt. Bahr that the pilot was seeking a place to land, but finding the clearing too small attempted to rise again and failed.

Just Back on Active Duty. Lieut. Willis was on duty as a White House aide until he returned to active flying duty this month. His tour of duty at the executive mansion terminated with the change of administration on March 4.

A graduate of West Point and both primary and advanced flying schools, he held the air-pilot rating, and had seen four years' service in the air from Bolling Field, interrupted only by normal ground duty and his duties at the White House during the latter part of the Hoover administration.

He was not married, and is survived by his mother, widowed in the same accident, and a sister, Margaret, who reside in Washington.

Others Are Old Friends. The other victims of the crash were old friends, and for several years had been colleagues in service in the Judge Advocate General's office. Last Friday they left Washington on a cross-country flight to Spangdahlem, N. C., with Maj. Willis' son at the controls. They were returning, when their flight ended fatally.

During the Spanish-American War, Maj. Willis, 55, served with the South Carolina Volunteers and saw service in Cuba. He entered the regular army some years later, attaining the rank of Colonel of Infantry during the World War. Maj. Parker, also 55, formerly was a Captain in the North Carolina National Guard and served for some time along the Arizona border during the Mexican troubles 17 years ago.

He entered the regular army in 1917 and served at various posts. Of recent years before coming to Washington he had been stationed in the Panama Canal zone and at Fort Benning, Ga.

ROBERT LEE MORTON,
INSURANCE MAN, DIES

St. Louisan Succumbs In Florida to Pneumonia Following Operation—Funeral Saturday.

Robert Lee Morton, a member of the firm of Morton & Morton, agents for the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Co., died Saturday of pneumonia, following an operation for appendicitis at Stuart, Fla., where he was spending the winter. Mr. Morton, who was 73 years old, and resided at 755 West Kirkham avenue, Webster Groves, was a former director of the Shapleigh Hardware Co. and a former sales manager for the Simmons Hardware Co. He held numerous offices in Masonic organizations and was a past president of the Rotary Club, City Club, Life Underwriters' Association of St. Louis and the Webster Groves School Board.

Born in Providence, R. I., Mr. Morton came to St. Louis as a youth. After winning success in 28 years in the hardware business, he entered the insurance field and achieved success there. He was active in the affairs of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce and served for a time as chairman of its membership committee. He had been in the insurance business since 1911.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Mary Matthews Morton, he is survived by four sons, Stratford Lee, Charles Matthews, Leonard Matthews and Robert Lee Morton Jr., and three daughters, Mrs. Arthur Anderson, Mrs. Raymond Wiesse, Evanston, Ill., and Mrs. Joseph Stehlin, Jacksonville, Fla.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at a time and place to be announced.

MAN ARRESTED IN ATTEMPT TO PASS COUNTERFEIT $100 BILL

Arrested in Sonnenfeld's When He Tenders It in Payment of Coat for Woman.

A man booked as James Moran, 34 years old, of Chicago, is being held for Federal authorities on a charge of offering a counterfeit $100 bill to a saleswoman at Sonnenfeld's clothing store, 613 Washington avenue, Saturday.

Police were informed he tendered the bill in payment for a coat selected by a woman companion. The cashier, on receiving the bill, notified a house detective and police were summoned. The woman fled from the store and drove away in an automobile, according to police. Moran denied knowing the bill was counterfeit and said he had won it in a gambling game in Chicago.

POLICEMAN FOLLOWS ODOR OF MASH TO STILL IN HOUSE

Arrests Man at 207 Ferry Street, Who Says He Got 25 Cents a Gallon for Tending Flare.

Patrolman Andrew Meyer, North Market Street Station, traced the odor of mash to 207 Ferry street yesterday. He said he was admitted to the house and found a 20-gallon still in operation and a quantity of alcohol and mash.

The man who admitted the officer was booked as La Gunh, 1840A South Eighth street. He was quoted as saying he had been employed to tend the still and was to receive 25 cents for each gallon of alcohol manufactured.

MAN HIT BY TRAIN DIES

An inquest will be held in the death of Elliott P. Moon, 68-year-old switching foreman, as a result of injuries suffered Saturday when he was struck by a freight car at Twelfth street and the Missouri Pacific tracks.

He suffered a fractured leg, arm and internal injuries, and died at Missouri Pacific Hospital Saturday evening. He resided at 534A Elliot street.

Killed by Stray Shot.

Lawrence Williams, 46 years old, Negro laborer, was killed Saturday night by a shotgun charge fired during a fight between two other Negroes. Witnesses said the other men fought over a cap, and one of them opened fire in an alley near Williams' home, 7714 East Railroad avenue. Williams, shot in the left side, was found dead in the alley later. The participants in the fight fled.

STUDEBAKER CARRIES ON

Receivership proceedings find world's oldest vehicle manufacturer with assets exceeding liabilities by over $70,000,000

FACTS LEADING TO COURT ACTION REVEALED

STUDEBAKER is still Studebaker in spirit, scope and service.

There has been no change, except for the better, in the policies and program of the historic Studebaker institution.

And Studebaker is fortunate that the men appointed to administer its affairs are H. S. Vance, Vice President of The Studebaker Corporation, Paul G. Hoffman, Vice President of The Studebaker Corporation and A. G. Bean, President of The White Motor Company—men schooled in the traditions which have given Studebaker its world-wide prestige.

The great South Bend plants of Studebaker, closed since the announcement of the bank moratorium, re-open Tuesday, March 21, under the direction of these seasoned automotive executives.

The New Strength of Studebaker

The Studebaker Corporation and its subsidiaries (including The White Motor Company and The Pierce-Arrow Motor Car Company, which are not included in this receivership) had on January 1, 1933, excluding good will, net assets of $77,622,293 in excess of all liabilities and a book value, excluding good will, of $26.22 per share of Studebaker common stock. Of these total net assets, net current assets amounted to $21,781,243 or $8.84 per share of common stock. Cash alone was more than $9,000,000.

Directors of Studebaker consented to the friendly receivership, despite the company's strong financial condition, because in their opinion the best interests of Studebaker would be protected until certain legal entanglements in connection with the proposed merger with The White Motor Company are adjusted.

The Studebaker-White Merger

Six months ago it was decided unanimously by the respective Boards of Directors of The Studebaker Corporation and The White Motor Company, that many economies and commercial advantages would result from a merger. A plan looking toward this merger was submitted to the stockholders of The White Motor Company. Within a short time 95 per cent of the White stock was turned in, manifesting the almost unanimous approval of White stockholders.

In recent months, however, holders of approximately 3 per cent of the White stock have threatened litigation against the merger unless their stock were purchased at a price which Studebaker directors felt to be unreasonable and upon terms which it was impossible to meet. Studebaker recognizes the right of minority stockholders to set any price they please on their White stock—even, as in this case, a price higher than it has commanded on the open market at any time since 1929. In addition to private negotiations for this minority stock, Studebaker offered a plan of consolidation under which its value could have been established by court appraisal but the minority stockholders refused to accept it.

The Studebaker Corporation issued $14,900,000 in notes in connection with the acquisition of the assets of The White Motor Company. As a result of the attitude of the small minority group, these assets of White have not yet been merged with those of Studebaker. Furthermore, the terms under which these notes were issued have made it impossible, in the present banking situation, for Studebaker to secure its customary financial accommodations.

Studebaker's competitive position in the industry has been improving steadily. During each of the past four years Studebaker-built cars have secured a larger proportion of total registrations than in the previous year.

The four lines of trucks—White, Pierce-Arrow, Studebaker and Indiana—now sold by The White Company showed a larger dollar volume last year than any competing company except Ford and Chevrolet. With these four lines of trucks, White branches made a better showing in January 1933 than in January 1932, when general conditions were much better.

There will be no variation whatsoever in the quality of Studebaker and Rockne workmanship. Studebaker and Rockne automotive products will continue to be built without interruption or change, by Studebaker men. This pioneering organization has already faced and fought and triumphed over more "depressions", wars and "bad times" than any other company in the automobile business.

Studebaker now confidently carries on, assured that it can continue to offer the American public the kind of automobiles and service for which the name Studebaker is distinguished.

RESIGN; UNABLE TO AID CREDITORSDeclare New York Investment Firm Has Liquid
Assets of $29,000; Bonds, $380,000,000.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 20.—An assertion by the retiring receivers that S. W. Straus & Co., Inc., was "simply a shell" with liquid assets of only $29,000 was made public yesterday and promptly challenged
by the chairman of the board.Robert Moses and William M.
Calder, in resigning as receivers for the investment concern because they said they were unable to do anything helpful for the holders of approximately $380,000,000 of outstanding bonds, and asserted a preliminary investigation showed the firm was "simply a shell."
"The company is not a 'shell,'" said a statement by S. J. T. Straus, who became chairman of the board on the death of S. W. Straus two years ago. "It now has assets which cost many millions of dollars and which even now are more than enough to pay all outstanding creditors."

Denial by Straus.

Declaring the statement of the receivers was incorrect, Straus added that "there are no bonds outstanding which are the obligations of S. W. Straus & Co., Inc., nor is the stock of this company owned by the public but is practically wholly owned by members of the Straus family."While the company was not a guarantor of the bonds it sold or under any obligation to pay principal and interest out of its own funds, he said, "this company nevertheless expended approximately $15,000,000 of its own funds in an effort to protect bondholders."Moses and Calder said what was needed was "a revision of Federal and State statutes safeguarding the issues of real estate mortgage bonds and protecting all bondholders where mortgages are in default."

New Receiver Named.

Their resignations were sent to Supreme Court Justice Charles C.
Lockwood, who announced he had appointed Louis F. Schuitze, a West Point graduate, as the new receiver. Schuitze posted a $50,000 bond and took charge of the company.Former Supreme Court Justice Stephen Callaghan, counsel for Moses and Calder, resigned with them.Moses, who is chairman of the Long Island State Park Commission, and Calder, a former United States Senator, expressed the opinion that the various bondholders' committees formed to salvage whatever remains from the collapse of the investment concern would have little success.

Urges New Legislation.

In urging a revision of the statutes, Moses and Calder said "obviously the holders of the millions of dollars worth of Straus bonds, many of them people of small means, should have their interests protected by public officials whose fees would be limited or who would be employed on a salary basis, and should not be left to the mercy of numerous competing groups and committees, the activities of which will further reduce the shrunken equities of the bondholders."Asserting they had been advised that S. W. Straus & Co. had agreed to go out of business, they said it was "interesting to note" that "S.
W. Straus & Co. had simply moved down town and gone into business again under a slightly different name."The new Straus firm, headed by S. J. T. Straus, announced its formation on March 8 as the Straus Securities Co., Inc., with offices in Wall street.Straus said the new company was formed "with capital contributed by my loyal friends and its formation was announced publicly in open court" before the receivers were appointed. He said the old company was "powerless to prevent the devastating effect of the depression on real estate values."Moses and Calder were appointed receivers of S. W. Straus & Co. on March 2.

By the Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, O., March 20.—Following a domestic quarrel, Charles D. Evans, 50 years old, Indianapolis contractor and carpenter, killed his wife and dismembered her body.
Then, when police here stumbled accidentally on the crime, he slashed his wrists and throat with a safety razor blade before three officers could prevent the suicide. The dismembered body was discovered in the back of his automobile when police stopped Evans yesterday for a traffic law violation. It was hidden in a wash boiler and cooking utensils under a tarpaulin.The pair had been estranged and Evans had been ordered by a court to pay his wife, Ella, $50 monthly.
At the Evans home in Indianapolis authorities found what apparently were bloodstains on the walls of the bathroom and rage and stained clothing in the furnace.
A maid said the Evans' had quarreled Thursday night, and that Mrs.
Evans was not home when she reported for work Friday. Evans told her, she said, that his wife had left at 2 a. m. and not returned.

WOMAN GETS TWO YEARS FOR MAIL FRAUD, BUT IS PAROLED

Judge Faris Impressed by Her Case of Children; Assailed "Cowardly, Anonymous Letters."

Mrs. Beatrice von Tromp, who pleaded guilty of a $718 mail fraud last July, was sentenced today to two years in prison and immediately paroled by Federal Judge Faris.

Her sentence had been deferred on her attorney's plea for leniency and to allow a probation officer to investigate the case. Judge Faris told Mrs. von Tromp he was "impressed" by her care for her four children, as reported by the probation officer. He said he had received several "contemptible and cowardly anonymous letters" about her from her former neighbors but placed little credence in them.

Mrs. von Tromp, who formerly operated a "residential club" at 4522 Lindell boulevard, pleaded guilty of depositing 12 drafts with the Girard Trust Co. of Philadelphia and later attempting to draw on the account. The drafts were originally prepared for mailing by the Bank of Maplewood & Trust Co. to a New York bank, but failed to arrive. The manner in which they were diverted was not determined. Mrs. von Tromp will be on probation for two years, without bond.

PETER J. PAULY AGAIN LEADS BIG TAXPAYERS HERE

Makes Personal Return of $68,250—Edward Mallinckrodt Is Second on List in City.

With the opening of the annual session of the City Board of Equalization today, the assessments of real estate and personal property on which 1933 taxes will be based were made public at the Assessor's office in City Hall.

Leading the list of large personal property taxpayers for the third consecutive year is Peter J. Pauly, 3643 Bismarck avenue, president of the Pauly Jail Building Co., with a return of $68,250. His 1932 return was $72,319 and in 1931 it was $71,010. Second on the list is Edward Mallinckrodt, 16 Westmoreland place, chairman of the board of the Mallinckrodt Chemical Works, with a return of $60,720. He was third last year, with $60,790.

The Board of Equalization will be in session for four weeks at 114 City Hall, during which time real estate owners may seek revision of the valuations fixed by the Assessor. Personal property returns are made by the owners, covering money in bank, securities, household goods, automobiles and other forms of property, but such levies are made by the Assessor if the owners fail to make returns. The Board of Equalization has power to decrease assessments on real or personal property on formal complaint of taxpayers or increase them on motion of the Assessor, in either case on showing of cause.

Members of the Board of Equalization, appointed last month by Mayor Miller, are: Assessor Gehner, chairman, ex-officio; Hiram Lloyd, building contractor and former Lieutenant-Governor, who has been on the board for several years, 1212 Clara avenue; Phil S. Noble, real estate dealer, 4325 Mo. Pherson avenue; Sylvester C. Judge Jr., real estate dealer, 3632 Flora place, and Charles H. Brandt, real estate dealer, 2827 Hartford street.

The assessment of real and personal property for 1933 taxes, made as of June 1, 1932, has been reported to the State Tax Commission. Assessor Gehner as $1,011,091,490, including $212,613,970 of real estate and $798,477,520 on personal property. This is about 10 per cent less than the assessment last year and about 20 per cent less than for 1931. This year's figures will be augmented by local assessments of public utilities, to be added by the State Board of Equalization.

Taxes are due next September and will become delinquent after Dec. 31. The tax rate for this year will be fixed soon. It was $2.74 on the $100 assessed valuation last year.

This year there were 14 personal property tax returns of individuals exceeding $25,000 each, which aggregated $774,890, or an average of $41,063 each. Last year there were 15 such returns, aggregating $965,640 and averaging $64,376; in 1931 there were 16 such returns, totaling $729,550 and averaging $45,596. There were four returns of more than $50,000 each this year, compared with five in 1932, six in 1931 and nine in 1930.

Only eight estates of deceased persons had returns of $100,000 or more this year, compared with 12 last year.

As last year, there are two corporations with returns exceeding $1,000,000 each. In the classification between $100,000 and $1,000,000 this year there are 12 corporations, compared with 17 last year.

In addition to Mallinckrodt and Pauly, the following individuals made personal property returns for 1933 in excess of $25,000 each:

Harry M. Pfleger and wife, 19 Kingsbury place, $60,540.
 Ida Winkelmeyer, 4573 West Pine boulevard, $51,480.
 Samuel C. Davis, $47,490.
 Dwight F. Davis, $41,000.
 Julia S. Straub, $40,520.
 Mattie Johnston, $36,180.
 John T. and Edith Davis, $34,710.
 Christopher Winkelmeyer, $30,890.
 Sidney E. Boyle, $30,000.
 Mary L. Barnard, $29,290.
 Francis D. Seward, $25,630.

Returns of $50,000 or more on personal property were made by administrators of 16 estates of deceased persons, as follows:

Fannie E. Hippee, $459,850.
 Sophia Franz, $374,380.
 Samuel S. Pingree, $345,000.
 Moses J. Ehrlich, $230,980.
 Elizabeth Gage Hough, $119,450.
 Judson D. Irwin, $110,940.
 Louis Strauss, $100,000.
 Lillian T. Bizby, $100,000.
 Henry Menzenwirth, $92,220.
 Leopold M. Guggenheim, $90,000.
 Louis C. Hermann, $82,230.

ROOSEVELT TALKS TO EXECUTIVES ON RAIL LEGISLATION

President Consults Heads of Three Roads With View to Early Congressional Action on Plan.

By the Associated Press.
 WASHINGTON, March 20.—President Roosevelt took up the railroad problem today in a conference with railway executives with a view to early congressional action. Those attending the White House conference included J. J. Puley, president of the New York, New Haven & Hartford; F. E. Williamson, president of the New York Central; Carl Gray, president of the Union Pacific, and Prof. A. A. Berle, an adviser of the President.

The group declined to comment on the conversation with the President.

Sensible "Don'ts" For Winter

In telling of the trouble which so often results from conditions which begin as "common colds" a physician names a few very timely "Don'ts."

"Don't over-eat, over-dress and under-exercise in winter."

"Don't keep the house too hot."

"Don't medicate your own colds. If you treat your own colds do so by going to bed, keeping the bowels open mildly and drinking quantities of fluid."

We would add a very important "Don't." If a cold doesn't yield quickly to home treatment, don't delay in calling your physician.

Let us fill your prescriptions.

ident, but there was a rather definite hint that Mr. Roosevelt had some railroad legislation in mind for early consideration by Congress.

This same group consulted the President last summer before he made his railroad speech at Salt Lake City in which he proposed that the Government announce its intention to stand behind the National Transportation System until it is again on a going basis. In the same speech he called also for a National Transportation System in which rail, air and water methods would be united.

JEFFERSON DE ANGELIS, VETERAN TROUPER, DIES

Light Opera Star of Years Ago
Succumbs in Orange, N. J., at Age of 73.

By the Associated Press.

ORANGE, N. J., March 20.—Jefferson de Angelis, actor, and one of the stars of the nineteenth century American light opera stage, died today at the Orange Memorial Hospital. He was 74 years old.

De Angelis had suffered from paralysis for more than a year. When he became ill he left his home in Long Island City, to live with his son, Frederick, in East Orange. He was taken to the hospital Feb. 22.

He is survived by his widow, his son, and three grandchildren. Funeral services will be held Wednesday in New York. Burial will be in Woodlawn Cemetery, Brooklyn.

The son of theatrical parents and with an uncle who was a comic opera star, Jefferson de Angelis fell into step with them when a mere child and progressed until he became one of the outstanding stars of the theater.

Jeff de Angelis, as he was generally known, was one of the four noted actors whose careers ran almost parallel. The others were De Wolf Hopper, E. H. Sothern and John Drew. While Drew and Sothern rose in the heavier and serious roles and Shakespearean dramas, Hopper and De Angelis won their fame in comic opera and musical comedy. Each was on the stage more than 50 years, the career of De Angelis exceeding those of the others by a few years because he became an actor younger than the other three.

When De Angelis was a boy he was taught by his uncle, Thomas Ross, the tumbling and dancing he had used to good advantage on the comic opera stage. Jeff also learned something of acting from rick Theater years ago in "The

his father and mother, and when he was 12 years old he made his first appearance in vaudeville in Baltimore.

The big event of De Angelis' early career was in 1880, when he started out at the head of his own company to tour the world. He and his sister had given up their vaudeville sketch for a one-act play, "One Word," in which they played eight weeks in San Francisco. With that play as the vehicle, he took his company to Australia, where they presented it for several months. It was then he decided to take his company on the world tour, prepared to play anything from grand and comic opera to farce and burlesque. A tour was made of the principal cities of Australia, after which visits were made to Japan, China, India and South Africa. The venture lasted four years and was marred only by the death of Miss de Angelis in 1882.

Smitten with homesickness, he returned to California, appeared in several shows and was then engaged by the McCaull Opera Co., which he remained with until 1890.

After that he starred in many of the popular comic operas of his time and during the latter years of his career his services were sought for parts in musical comedies and revues.

De Angelis was born at San Francisco, Nov. 30, 1859, the son of John and Susan de Angelis. His education was obtained in public schools of San Francisco, Philadelphia and New York. In 1882, when his company was in India, he married Miss Florence Conliffe.

He was featured for two years, 1897-98, with Lillian Russell and Della Fox in "The Wedding Day." That engagement, he maintained, marked the peak of his career.

The New Bostonian engaged him as Bumerl for their tour of "The Chocolate Soldier," in 1921, and during the latter part of that year he appeared as Nib in a revival of "The Merry Widow."

For several years musical shows and revues were planned with parts especially adapted to De Angelis, and in 1928 he had an important role in "The Royal Family." He made his home at Yonkers.

BOETTCHER KIDNAPING FUGITIVE
SUSPECTED IN LINDBERGH CASE

Verne Sankey Also Thought to Have Had Hand in Bohn Abduction.

By the Associated Press.
DENVER, Colo., March 20.—An investigation which he hopes will definitely connect Verne Sankey with the Lindbergh baby kidnaping and the abduction of Haskell Bohn, member of a wealthy St. Paul family, was being pursued here today by County Attorney M. F. Kinkead of St. Paul. Sankey is sought by Denver police as the ringleader of the recent abduction of Charles Boettcher, wealthy broker who was released after $80,000 ransom was paid.

Kinkead said Sankey "undoubtedly engineered" both the Boettcher and Bohn kidnapings and he said there was reason to believe he might have been implicated in the abduction March 1, 1932, of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's first son.

"We have information that a telephone call instructing Col. Lindbergh as to the manner in which he should pay ransom for the return of his son was made from a filling station in Minneapolis," Kinkead said. "We believe Sankey was in Minneapolis at the time."

Kinkead said samples of Sankey's handwriting appeared identical with that contained in notes in the St. Paul case. Bohn was held captive one week last summer before he was released.

Sankey and Gordon Elkhorn are charged in Federal informations with the Boettcher kidnaping.

Pulitzer Prize Announcement.
By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, March 20.—The Pulitzer prizes for literature will be announced in public this year for the first time. The announcements of the prize novel play, poetry, historical work and biography will be made at the annual dinner of the friends of the Princeton Library here May 4, to which winners of other years have been invited.

Stop a COLD the First Day!

Taken Promptly, this Four-Way Remedy Will Usually Stop a Cold the First Day and Save You Much Suffering as Well as the Danger of Serious Complications!

The time to stop a cold is before it gets started. Once a cold fastens itself on you, it becomes twice as hard to remove. And a cold lodged in the system may lead to something worse.

Don't hope to kill a cold with merely local or external applications. A cold is a germ attack, an internal infection and, as such, calls for internal treatment. Don't hope to kill a cold, either with anything except a COLD remedy. A cure-all is self-deception. Many preparations which people commonly take for a cold actually make the relief of a cold more difficult because these preparations are constipating and also make the system acid.

The Required Effects

The thing to take for a cold or case of gripe is Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine—because it does the four things necessary, in the way that is necessary.

First of all, it opens the bowels, gently but thoroughly—the first step in knocking a cold. Secondly, it kills the cold germs in the system, expels the poisonous infection and reduces the fever. Thirdly, it relieves the headache and that grippy feeling. Fourthly, it tones the entire system and fortifies against further attack.

This is the treatment a cold calls for and anything less is taking chances.

Harmless, But Effective!

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine may be safely taken by young and old and whether you stay indoors or go out. There is no penalty attached to its use. For more than forty years it has been the standard cold and gripe tablet of the world, the formula keeping pace with Modern Medicine. Always ask for it by the full name and look for the letters L B Q stamped on every tablet. Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine now comes in two sizes—30c and 50c. Resent a substitute as an attempt to exploit you.

CAMPAIGN FUND DEMAND BY G. O. P. ROUSES FIREMEN

One Group of Union Considers Matter at Meeting and Another Will Take It Up Tomorrow.

Members of the City Firemen's Union, meeting today at 3335 Pine boulevard, discussed the demand issued Saturday in behalf of the Republican City Committee for campaign contributions from the Fire Department amounting to about $9400.

The firemen, while they refused to discuss the demand with a Post-Dispatch reporter, are known to be aroused against it. The union meeting was private and it was not indicated what action might be taken. Those attending were off duty today. The other platoon will meet at the same place tomorrow.

During the last eight years, under the administration of Mayor Miller, it has been the custom of the Republican Committee to call for campaign donations from the firemen on a fixed scale. Heretofore, the firemen, although many of them disliked to give up the money, were inclined to feel payments were in the nature of insurance to keep their jobs.

One Reason for Objection. Now, feeling the Democrats have a strong chance to win the city election April 4, they are wondering if it might not be fatal to their positions to give to the Republicans. This feeling is particularly strong among the officers, who might be especially subject to demotion or dismissal if regarded as active Republicans.

Word went out from Fire Department headquarters at City Hall Saturday, it was learned, that members of the department were expected to contribute according to this scale: Captain, $12; lieutenants and engineers, $11; private, $10; watchmen, $5. It was said the donation from each of the District Chiefs was supposed to be about $50.

There are 955 members of the department, including 682 privates. All are members of the union except the District Chiefs, the Deputy Chief and Chief De Voto. The Chief said last Saturday he knew nothing about any effort to collect campaign funds from his men.

Says He Ordered Collection. Arthur Benda, secretary of the Fire Department, related today that on Saturday he had directed the District Chiefs to make the collection, suggesting that a uniform scale should be followed. He denied specifying any particular scale. Benda said he told the District Chiefs today there must be no coercion in their solicitation and no record kept of those who give or fail to give.

He said he insisted there must be no discrimination against men who did not give, and that contributions were to be received for the Democratic campaign as well as the Republican, if offered. Early last week, Benda went on, he and other departmental officials attended a conference at the Republican City Committee headquarters, at which they were told city employees were expected to contribute to the party funds. It was the general idea, he added, that each employee was to give 10 per cent of a month's salary, but he argued that firemen should not be asked to pay so much.

The pay of a private in the Fire Department is $180 a month, less the 10 per cent reduction in effect since last June.

Charter Provision Ignored. The city Charter provides that any person who shall solicit, directly or indirectly, any contribution or assessment for any political party from any person in the city's classified service shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. The punishment, on conviction, shall be a fine of $10 to $500 or imprisonment for not more than 100 days, or both fine and imprisonment. This Charter provision always has been ignored. Firemen are in the classified service.

Before Mayor Miller's administration, under Mayor Kiel, many firemen contributed to the Republican campaign funds, but the requirements were not so exacting. Since Mayor Miller has been in office firemen off duty have been required to attend meetings of Republican ward organizations and to work at the polls on election days.

In a report published two months ago, the National Board of Fire Underwriters said of the Fire Department: "Promotion of officers to all grades is largely influenced by politics, and as a result of these causes the department has not progressed with the modern development of fire fighting and fire prevention."

LL EUROPE INCLUDED IN MUSSOLINI PEACE PLAN

Not Merely 'Collaboration of Four Powers,' MacDonald Says, on Leaving Rome for Paris to Urge Its Adoption There.

DECLARES 'U. S. NOT OVERLOOKED'

Details Still Withheld—Hitler Already Has Copy of Italian Proposal and May Be Invited to Conference on It.

The Associated Press. ROME, March 20.—The new Mussolini peace plan will not be limited to Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy, but will embrace the whole continent, and even the United States to a certain extent, said Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain in an interview today.

MacDonald made the statement before leaving for Paris, to urge Premier Daladier of France to approve the project. He bid farewell to Mussolini and French Ambassador de Jouvencel. Sir John Simon, British Foreign Secretary, remains in Rome for further sightseeing. MacDonald refused to divulge any details, but said "our whole idea is to open up the possibility of complete agreement, not among two, three, four, five or six Powers, but among all."

An official Italian announcement said "collaboration of the four Powers" was proposed in Premier Mussolini's plan, but no details were made public.

U. S. to Be Fully Informed. "We are not proceeding with an idea of getting two or three to agree and imposing this agreement on others," MacDonald said.

Asked regarding the part of the United States, he replied: "We are not overlooking the United States by any means. We need her, too. The American Government will be kept fully informed concerning the negotiations."

He repeated a statement made Saturday that the situation in Europe was dangerous, but added that along with the dangers there also exist great opportunities to do something effective to remove them. "The proposal," he said, "is to have in mind is to create conditions of real peace which will rise from the satisfaction of various nations who are in a position to disturb it. We are not for an imposed peace but for an agreed peace," he said.

MacDonald exclaimed against excessive nationalism. "We have got to save Europe and the world and have got to fit our nationalistic ideas into the whole scheme of which we are a part. We all recognize the tremendous agency of getting a better atmosphere into the international situation," he added.

He declared reported summaries of the Mussolini plan dispatched broad were "sheer imagination."

Premiers May Meet. Chancellor Hitler of Germany expected to join MacDonald and Mussolini in a later conference in northern Italy if it is decided further details should be discussed. It was understood MacDonald will ask the French Premier his views on such a conference.

The French and German Governments already have copies of the Mussolini project. An official announcement said it proposed "collaboration of the four Powers in an effort to promote, in the spirit of the Kellogg pact and a 'no force' declaration, a long period of peace in Europe and the world."

The "no force" declaration was signed by the four Powers last December and induced simultaneous equality in armaments for Germany and security for France. The agreement brought Germany back into the disarmament conference after a four months' absence because its arms equality demands were unsatisfied.

Mussolini's Speech. The world's principal problems could be solved if the Governments and the peoples listen to Rome, Mussolini declared in a speech yesterday. Addressing a commercial federation meeting here, he said "Fascist wisdom was the only solution for the present ills and again predicted all Europe would be Fascist within a decade. ROME, March 20.—The new Mussolini peace plan will not be limited to Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy, but will embrace the whole continent, and even the United States to a certain extent, said Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain in an interview today.

MacDonald made the statement before leaving for Paris, to urge Premier Daladier of France to approve the project. He bid farewell to Mussolini and French Ambassador de Jouvenel. Sir John Simon, British Foreign Secretary, remains in Rome for further sightseeing. MacDonald refused to divulge any details, but said "our whole idea is to open up the possibility of complete agreement, not among two, three, four, five or six Powers, but all nations concerned."

An official Italian announcement said "collaboration of the four Powers" was proposed in Premier Benito Mussolini's plan, but no details were made public.

U. S. to Be Fully Informed. "We are not proceeding with an idea of getting two or three to agree and imposing this agreement on others," MacDonald said. Asked regarding the part of the United States, he replied:

"We are not overlooking the United States by any means. We need her, too. The American Government will be kept fully informed concerning the negotiations."

He repeated a statement made Saturday that the situation in Europe was dangerous, but added that along with the dangers there also exist great opportunities to do something effective to remove them.

MacDonald called the working out of the Mussolini plan "an evolutionary process." He said it would be presented to each nation in accordance with that nation's particular condition. "The proposal we have in mind is to create conditions of real peace which will rise from the satisfaction of various nations who are in a position to disturb it. We are not for an imposed peace but for an agreed peace," he said.

MacDonald exclaimed against extreme nationalism. "We have got to save Europe and the world and have got to fit our realistic ideas into the whole scheme of which we are a part. We all recognize the tremendous urgency of getting a better atmosphere into the international situation," he added.

He declared reported summaries of the Mussolini plan dispatched abroad were "sheer imagination."

Premiers May Meet. Chancellor Hitler of Germany and Premier Daladier of France are expected to join MacDonald and Mussolini in a later conference in Southern Italy if it is decided further details should be discussed. It was understood MacDonald will ask the French Premier his views on such a conference.

The French and German Governments already have copies of the Mussolini project. An official announcement said it proposed "collaboration of the four Powers in an effort to promote, in the spirit of the Kellogg pact and a 'no force' declaration, a long period of peace in Europe and the world."

The "no force" declaration was signed by the four Powers last December and endorsed simultaneously in armaments for Germany and security for France. The agreement brought Germany back into the disarmament conference after a four months' absence because its arms equality demands were unsatisfied.

Cotton Shippers' Group Says Farm Bill Puts Planter in Servitude

Declares Under It Secretary of Agriculture Can Upset Marketing System Overnight—Predicts "Irreparable Damage."

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—A bitter attack on the administration farm relief program as holding "no hope for success" was made yesterday by a special committee of the American Cotton Shippers' Association.

After a series of conferences here, the committee issued a statement declaring that the men who aided in drawing up the cotton provisions of the farm bill were "far from being experienced in the handling and distribution of cotton."

"They are experienced chiefly," the statement said, "in the preparation of propaganda and in political methods necessary to keep themselves drawing good salaries from farm organizations and, indirectly, from the United States Treasury."

The statement was signed by T. F. Bush of Waco, Tex.; J. W. Garrow of Houston, Tex.; C. W. Butler of Memphis, Tenn.; and Dameron H. Williams of Gastonia, N. C. They mentioned no names of those they referred to.

Farmer in Servitude. "Under this bill," they said, "the farmer is placed in a position of actual servitude under the complete domination of the Secretary of Agriculture. What to plant, how to plant and what price he will receive will be dictated by a bureau in Washington. His farm will be under the management of a Government bureaucracy."

"It is our conviction that the farmer, once he understands what the bill means to him, will not cooperate but will resent the imposition."

"Under this act the Secretary of Agriculture is empowered to completely regulate, or, if he wishes, eliminate the processors of agricultural commodities. He can upset overnight the plan of merchandising, processing and distribution of the farmer's crops built up over a period of 100 years."

The statement said since "one plan of salvation may be tried today, another tomorrow," and still "another next week," a "state of uncertainty will be created," and "investors and buyers will not come into the market."

"No Hope of Success." "There can be no hope of success for this plan," the statement added. "We feel sure our great chief executive, should this become evident, would quickly move to redeem his promise and to change or repeal when he was convinced that the plan was headed for the same rocks that other plans of like nature have been wrecked upon. It follows, however, that months would ensue before the resulting snarl could be straightened out. The damage would be irreparable."

"It would be most unfortunate just at this time when the whole country is co-operating in a wonderful effort to bring about recovery if the well-laid plans and the propagandized efforts of these professional farmers, with no farmer following, should result in legislation which within a very short time would break down every effort our President and the Congress are making to restore prosperity."

HARRY HAYS MORGAN, FORMER U. S. CONSUL, DIES IN LONDON

Father of Lady Furness and Gloria Morgan Vanderbilts Succumbs at Age of 72

LONDON, March 20.—Harry Hays Morgan, former United States Consul-General in Barcelona, Brussels and Buenos Aires, died here yesterday at the home of his daughter, Lady Furness. He was 72 years old.

Lady Furness is the wife of a British shipping magnate. Morgan, prominent socially in New York and father of Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt, widow of Reginald C. Vanderbilt, had been ill for some time. His wife, Mrs. Vanderbilt, and his son, Harry Morgan Jr., were at the bedside.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow.

Harry Hays Morgan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Hickey Morgan, was born in New Orleans Dec. 24, 1860. He was educated in Belgium and Germany until 16, then at Exeter Academy, N. H. He studied law with his father. Morgan married Laura Kilpatrick, U. S. A., in New York in 1897. He entered the diplomatic service in Mexico City, and then served at various posts. In 1917 he was American Food and Fuel Administration representative in Cuba. He aided in the negotiations for the reconstruction of Belgium in 1919-20.

SPECIAL AMBASSADOR DAVIS TO SAIL THURSDAY FOR LONDON

To Confer with British Officials on Peace Move Before Going to Geneva

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—Arrangements were made today for Norman H. Davis, special Ambassador on disarmament and world economics, to sail Thursday for London, where he will see leading British officials before going to Geneva.

State Department officials said they assumed Davis would see Prime Minister MacDonald and Foreign Secretary Simon in London.

He would then be in a position to exchange views on the efforts now being made to assure European peace by collaboration of the great nations, a move in which MacDonald and Premier Mussolini of Italy have taken a leading part.

Municipal League Urges 'Citizens' Council' in Each City

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 20.—The formation of a "citizens' council" in every city and county was proposed yesterday in a statement issued by the National Municipal League. The council would consider the problems of maintaining essential community services in the face of the need for reduction of public expenditures.

The move had the endorsement of 52 organizations, including the League of Women Voters, the Parent-Teacher Association, the Child Welfare League, chambers of commerce and other groups.

FARM RELIEF BILL IS APPROVED BY HOUSE COMMITTEE

Measure Will Be Brought Out Tomorrow Under Rule for 4 Hours Debate, No Amendments.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—The administration farm relief bill was approved today by the House Agriculture Committee. The vote was 10-4.

In some House quarters, however, a statement by Chairman Jones, that "I am not in accord with some of the provisions of the proposed measure," was considered indicative of the committee's attitude.

The emergency measure, designed to boost farm buying power, will be brought before the House tomorrow under a rule allowing four hours debate but no amendments. Jones predicted passage by Wednesday night.

The bill was approved substantially as drafted by the Agriculture Department experts. Among the few amendments was one striking out the requirement that employees be appointed to carry out the act must be subject to the civil service laws.

"The committee felt that, in view of the emergency nature of the act, civil service requirements would involve too much delay," Jones said. Jones did not introduce the bill, as is the customary practice for committee chairmen. It was sponsored instead by Representative Fulmer of South Carolina, ranking Democrat on the committee. Jones said, however, that he would direct the bill's progress on the floor.

Changes and a Statement. Another committee change was to exempt from the processing tax provisions the products of farm's producing for sale less than $100 in value. The committee also added a safeguard to prohibit any employee from dealing in the commodities affected. It increased the maximum salary from $7500 to $10,000.

Immediately after final committee action Jones issued the following statement to newspaper men: "Personally, I feel that the refinancing of farm mortgages, the establishment of credit facilities, the adjustment of freight rates which are discriminatory against agriculture, and the adjustment of trade barriers in the interest of markets are the most important steps in the farm program."

"A mortgage program is being worked out. The merging of the different farm lending facilities under one head is being planned. In my judgment, this should include agricultural financing outside regular commercial banking channels. I hope the freight rate question may receive early attention."

"If these steps are taken, I feel that other action would be largely unnecessary."

"I am not in accord with some of the provisions of the proposed measure. However, in view of existing conditions, I expect to support the President in his request for the emergency authority provided in the bill."

While the Agriculture Committee was taking final action on the bill the Rules Committee approved a rule for its consideration.

Wide variance of views by congressional leaders of farm legislation, however, virtually shut out the prospect of quick and unanimous agreement such as that reached on other emergency proposals put forward by President Roosevelt. The best that friends of the bill hope for is that the measure will be in the hands of a conference committee selected from the two bodies.

SINCLAIR LEWIS HERE, TELLS ABOUT NEW MAIN STREET

Novelist Says Young People Have Made Change for Better Since He Wrote Famous Book.

By the Associated Press.

Main street has changed, and for the better, since Sinclair Lewis wrote his famous book about it in 1920, he said in St. Louis today. "It's more comfortable, and I think, more amusing," he told reporters at Hotel Statler. "And the young people are doing it. I don't think the older people have changed."

"But these kids just out of college—I came over with some of them on the boat. They know so much more than I did at that age. They seem to know what's going on in the world, and they have charming manners. I'd back them against any European kid, from any of the great universities."

"Ten years ago the young people in the small towns were sort of frightened, and they were worse 10 years before that. When I was just out of college we were still in the George Ade period—little round hat, bow tie, and if you didn't have a mandolin you wished to God you knew how to play one."

"Now they are finished men of the world in charm, in ease and in reticence. And they're just as solid, and just as fine, as the young people before them. Ernest Hemingway has more and not less integrity than the writers of a generation ago."

Breaks Journey Here. Lewis stopped in St. Louis yesterday when bad weather interrupted a trip by air to the Pacific Coast. His first interest was the Mississippi, and he took a leisurely view of it before dusk. Today he visited Forest Park and Hooverville.

He said—and departed by train for Kansas City, where he is to spend a day or two with the minister who aided him in the preparation of "Elmer Gantry."

The only American winner of the Nobel prize in literature, who "used to be a newspaper man himself" but doesn't commit the unpardonable banality of saying so, reigned at a sort of informal court reception for reporters in a Statler suite, lent for the occasion, for he and his man secretary had taken only a pair of bedrooms.

Tall, with sparse sandy hair, a dominant forehead, darting blue eyes and a grin, chatting of everything under the sun, he lived up to his pressroom reputation as the "good fellow" among celebrities. He was laden with reminiscences about the craft.

A Newspaper Experience. There was the time when the San Francisco Bulletin assigned him to interview a Chinese prince. Before he reached the prince's suite he had planned his word picture—a little Oriental in huge epaulets, a uniform of parts from all nations, to meet inter charges.

AUSTRIA ADOPTS STRONG MEASURES TO HELP BIG BANKS

Decrees, Based on War Emergency Laws, Provide for Drastic Reductions in Pensions and Salaries.

By the Associated Press.

VIENNA, March 20.—Drastic measures to restore the liquidity of Austria's big banks were announced today in a Government communique. The statement was issued after the Cabinet had met in an almost continuous session since 11 a. m. Saturday.

The decrees, based on war emergency laws, will authorize the Finance Ministry to lend 140,000,000 shillings (currently about $19,600,000) and the National Bank to lend 40,000,000 shillings (about $5,600,000) to an "institute for revision and trusteeship." This institute will, in turn, lend funds to banks now embarrassed by the inability of corporations and communities, to which they lent money, to meet inter charges.

the two branches by the end of the week.

Chairman Smith of the Senate Agricultural Committee, which postponed consideration because of the revenue provisions which require that the bill originate in the House, said his committee, which has studied the program informally, is ready to act as soon as the House action is completed. Arrival of the measure on the Senate floor, however, is expected to be the signal for a storm of amendments.

One group of amendments contemplated would seek to add various commodities to those already in the bill—wheat, cotton, corn, rice, tobacco, hogs, cattle, sheep, milk and its products.

Others would attempt to reduce the number of products for which specific efforts would be made to curtail production and boost prices. Because of the experimental aspects of the measure, some members favor limiting the bill to commodities now strictly on an export basis. This definitely would eliminate milk, sheep and cattle.

Curbing of the emergency authority the bill would extend to Secretary Wallace also will be especially opposed to the delegation of broad powers to regulate marketing and processing of the farm products named in the bill.

Senator Robinson, Democratic leader, said he saw little prospect for wide amendment of the measure, however, except with respect to the most minor provisions.

Other farm legislation is moving nearer to action. Henry Morgenthau Jr., Farm Board chairman, is working with the farm organization leaders in a study of methods of providing farm mortgage relief, which will soon be submitted to the President.

Senator Smith proposes that this program include the setting up of a special banking organization which would recognize that farm credit is usually extended on a longer term basis than most commercial credit.

NEW TREATMENT FOR EXPECTANT AND NURSING MOTHERS

When a baby is expected, laxatives must not be used. Mother must not take them as long as she is carrying or nursing the little one.

Doctors will tell you that laxative drugs taken by the mother are a danger to baby. It is a crime to risk your baby's health. That is why they so often advise Cream of Nujol.

This new form of Nujol is especially suitable for expectant and nursing mothers because it does not upset the stomach or cause cramps and does not pass into the milk.

If you are expecting a baby, take the new harmless Cream of Nujol treatment night and morning. It is kind to the delicate bowel membranes, and being free of drugs, it is safe for you and your child. Moreover, it is delicious and easy to take. At a cost of only a few cents a day it will make you "as regular as clockwork," and protect the health of your child. Buy it at any drug counter.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH MUSSOLINI'S PEACE PLAN IS DESIGNED TO EMBRACE ALL EUROPE Continued From Page One.

Mussolini peace project were based on his declaration in a speech Oct. 23 that collaboration of the four Powers was the only hope for permanent peace in Europe.

(A Paris dispatch said the French Cabinet would consider the Mussolini plan today. It declared that even if better relations between France and Germany failed, a more friendly relationship between France and Italy seemed likely).

Received by King and Pope.

Both Pope King and King Victor Emmanuel received the British statesman yesterday in private audiences. At a luncheon at the Quirinal Palace, the Italian and British Premiers sat on either hand of the King.

The British embassy gave a dinner for Government leaders which was attended also by United States Ambassador Garrett and Mrs. Garrett.

The French and German Ambassadors met MacDonald and Mussolini after the dinner to talk over the Mussolini peace project. The last formal conference between Mussolini and the two British statesmen was held in the afternoon and lasted an hour and three-quarters. Their formal conferences over the week-end took up about three hours in all.

British officials said the three leaders discussed disarmament only briefly, devoting their time to the political problems of Europe. The officials said Premier MacDonald's detailed plan for limitation on armies and navies of principal countries, as outlined by him at Geneva last week, was not discussed at all. The reason for this was that Italian experts had not completed an examination of it.

The official statement issued yesterday said:

"After a full and exhaustive exchange of ideas on the general situation, the Ministers examined in these conversations a project for an understanding on larger political questions put forward by the head of the Italian Government, with the object of securing collaboration of the four Western Powers in an effort to promote, in the spirit of the Kellogg pact and a 'no force' declaration, a long period of peace for Europe and the world."

"The British Ministers, leaving Rome tomorrow morning for London, will break the journey at Paris, where they will have an opportunity of meeting the members of the French Government."

FORMER GOVERNOR LA FOLLETTE RECEIVED AT WHITE HOUSE

Visits Roosevelt on Return From Russia; Accompanied on Call by His Brother.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 20. — Philip La Follette, former Governor of Wisconsin, who has just returned from Russia, was received today by President Roosevelt. Senator Robert M. La Follette Jr., his brother, accompanied him.

President Roosevelt recently has been seeking information about Russian conditions, and friends have indicated that he has been unable to get all the facts he desired from present available sources. This has led to the conclusion in some quarters that he is seriously considering establishing diplomatic emissaries of this country in Russia—an act which would constitute recognition.

Senator La Follette, a leader in the fight for direct unemployment relief, has been consulting with the President on the draft of a huge unemployment proposal. There is speculation at the capital that Mr. Roosevelt might ask Philip La Follette to be the directing head of his unemployment program.

POLICE MAKE GAMBLING RAID ON FORMER VANDERBILT HOME

16 Persons, Most of Them in Evening Clothes, Found Around Gambling Table.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 20.—Sixteen men and women, most of them in evening clothes, were found around a gambling table when 30 detectives and uniformed policemen crashed early yesterday into the mansion once owned by the late Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt. Twenty-four other persons were playing contract bridge in private rooms.

The raiders confiscated the table, which they said was used in high-stake chemin de fer, arrested two men as employees of the place and released the others. As no money was in sight and no game in progress the two men later were dismissed for lack of evidence.

Police Commissioner Mulrooney said an actress wrote him a month ago complaining that her husband had lost heavily at chemin de fer in "the most fashionable gaming home in town." She gave the address.

The commissioner sent two recruits who posed as Harvard students and played in the game for three week-ends. Yesterday they raised a window shade, the signal for the raid.

drastic reductions in pensions and salaries, which hitherto were protected by law and therefore could not be touched.

The guaranteeing of royalties to bank directors will henceforth be forbidden.

The communique explains that the salary and pension cuts alone would not be enough to save the situation and, therefore, "the Government in agreement with the National Bank has determined to furnish an institute for revision and trusteeship with enough capital to enable it to help the banks liquidate their frozen assets."

All existing special agreements between banks and employees will be terminated by the decree as of March 31.

insisting "Me velly biggee Plincy."

"His secretary met me at the door in morning clothes," Lewis chuckled. "Obviously Oxford. Explained that of course the Prince couldn't see me, but the secretary would be very glad to give me any information I required."

"And I learned more out of that five minutes than I could in four years in jail. I got the idea that there might be other people besides Americans—and Poles and Germans and Frenchmen and Britishers—who might not be so damn' funny after all."

Touching a moment on new books, Lewis put in a word for "Union Square," by a writer unknown outside the American Mercury, and for "Nobody Stars," as possibly the proletarian novel which nobody expected an American to write. He had given up an attempt to write it himself after two years of work.

"It's so mixed up now," he explained. "You don't know where you are. A. F. L., I. W. O., Lord knows how many little Communist off-shoots—how can a novelist gather in all those loose ends? Where are you when Willie Green fights the appointment of Frances Perkins as Secretary of Labor? Best qualified and best trained person in the country for the job, but not a member of the American Federation of Labor. Jim Davis—you can't print what I'm going to say about Jim Davis. But he was all right, because he belonged to the Federation."

Even when the topic turned to inconsequential, brilliant phrases, unstudied as the attitude in which he slouched in his chair, girted in his chatter. There was his footnote on a tiny gathering of radicals, "joking with the dreadful jokiness of any domestic community."

Wherever the world of directors' meetings and union labels was going, he remarked here's hope in the biologists. And, "The artist and the biologist are not far apart. They start from different angles, you say; but ultimately they converge. The good biologist might well be a good poet."

He pleaded guilty of responsibility in part for the modern superstitions reverence for "anybody who says, 'I'm a scientist' just like the old codgers who used to call on the news rooms and announce, 'I'm a journalist.'" And another footnote: "The American newspa-

Chicago Police Seek Motorist Who Drove Away to Take Victim to Hospital.

CHICAGO, March 20. — Police are looking today for the automobile driver who threw his 12-year-old girl victim out of his car a few blocks from the scene of an accident after offering to take her to a hospital.

The girl is Mabel Maxwell, 12, a passing motorist found her on a street-covered street and took her to a hospital. Doctors said she was suffering from skull fracture and was in serious condition.

The accident occurred when the automobile plowed into a safety island near Lincoln Park. Gisela, 42, standing near the girl, said so was run down and injured.

Two Women, Three Children Victims of Accident at Houllonville La.

NEW ORLEANS, March 20. — Five members of a New Orleans family were drowned yesterday when their automobile plunged off the ferry at Houllonville, La., near here, into the Tchoufouctia River.

The dead: Mrs. Olivia Rousseau, Miss Estelle Rousseau, sister-in-law of Mrs. Rousseau, and the three Rousseau children, June, Muriel and Rodney.

Clovis Rousseau, husband of the dead woman, and his sister, Mrs. Corinne Rousseau Koepf, were rescued by the operator of the ferry.

DEADLINE MARCH 27
FOR GOLD HOARDERS

Government Extends Time; 5 Per Cent Withdrawals in Unlicensed Banks.

WASHINGTON, March 20. — Gold hoarders have been given until March 27 to return their stocks to the banks. The Federal Reserve Board yesterday sent out word to each of its 12 districts, extending the time for compiling of lists of those who have withdrawn gold since Feb. 1. There was no official comment.

At the same time the Treasury authorized unlicensed State member banks to permit withdrawals of amounts not exceeding 5 per cent of their deposits, and repealed regulations allowing withdrawals from closed banks for meeting payrolls and necessities of life. It was explained unofficially that with a number of banks now open, the regulations could well be set aside to conserve the assets of banks closed or under conservators.

The original time limit for filing a list of gold hoarders expired last Friday. Ever since announcement was made that hoarders were being checked, a flow of gold has poured into Reserve banks. The Treasury said that on March 15 a total of $327,000,000 had been returned.

It has been pointed out that with a list of hoarders the Treasury could either publish the names or turn them over to the Justice Department for action under the anti-boarding provision of the emergency banking act.

(Under the emergency banking act the President has power to "investigate, regulate or prohibit, under such rules . . . as he may prescribe" various acts, including hoarding, "of gold or silver coin or bullion or currency by any person within the United States," etc. Violations carry penalties of $10,000 fine or 10 years imprisonment or both. This is effective "during time of war or during any other period of national emergency declared by the President.")

TWO MEN, ONE AN EX-CONVICT, ARE FOUND SLAIN BY FARMER

BEIDFORD, N. Y., March 20. — A farmer driving to church yesterday found two bodies, apparently dumped from an automobile, each with two bullets in the heart and one in the head.

Papers in their pockets indicated the victims were Joseph Callegari, an ex-convict, of Brooklyn, and Frank Russo of Ozone Park, L. I. A parole card in Callegari's pocket showed he had been discharged from a New York State prison March 14. He also had several letters signed "Pop," postmarked from Waynesboro, Pa.

New York City authorities were asked to assist in the investigation.

RAIN STOPS CARDS-BRAVES GAME AFTER 6 SCORELESS INNINGS

Hallahan Hurled for 5 Frames; Medwick Plays Third Base

By J. Roy Stockton.
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 20.—Rain and darkness stopped the second game of the training camp series between the Cardinals and Boston Braves this afternoon after they had battled for six scoreless innings.

Bill Hallahan hurled five innings for the Redbirds and yielded only six hits. Bill Walker pitched one inning.

The Cards could only amass four hits off Harry "Socks" Seibold and Joe Medwick played third base for the Cardinals, Manager Gabby Street deciding not to use Earl "Sparky" Adams, although he showed good form in the pre-game workout. "Pepper" Martin, playing shortstop, made three errors.

The game: FIRST INNING—CARDINALS—Orsatti popped to Urbanski. Watkins singled to center. C. Wilson forced Watkins, Seibold to Urbanski, and Wilson took second on Urbanski's hit. Medwick threw to first. Martin grounded to Urbanski.

BRAVES—Medwick ran in fast and threw out Knott. Urbanski singled to right. Jordan singled to right. Urbanski stopping at second. C. Wilson threw out Schumacher. Berger walked. Collins the bases. Hogan popped to C. Wilson.

SECOND—CARDINALS—Medwick grounded to Wright. Crabtree singled to left. Crawford to third base for Boston. Crabtree's pop fly fell for a double in left field. Crawford to Urbanski and Crabtree was run down. Urbanski to left. Wright. O'Farrell to Wright to Jordan.

BRAVES—Jordan singled to left. Schumacher lined to Martin and Jordan was doubled off first. Martin to Crawford. Berger beat out a grounder to Martin and took second on Martin's wild throw. Spohrer was safe on Martin's throw. Spohrer was safe on Martin's throw.

THIRD—CARDINALS—Spohrer went in to catch for Boston. Wright threw to Seibold and Seibold took second. Medwick threw to Seibold. Medwick threw to Seibold. Medwick threw to Seibold.

IT WON'T BE LONG, NOW

PRENTICE WILL AGAIN LEAD U. S. DAVIS CUP TEAM

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 20.—The drive to bring back the Davis Cup to the United States this year got under way today with the reappointment of Bernon S. Prentice of New York as chairman of the Davis Cup Committee.

The appointment was announced by Harry S. Knox, president of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, Prentice issued a call for the General Davis Cup Committee of 28 to meet here March 27 to discuss plans for the campaign.

The naming of Prentice was taken as an indication that his training methods, which came in for considerable criticism last year when the American team lost to the British in the challenge round, had the backing of the association, and that the team probably will compete in the Wimbledon championships this year.

The Davis Cup Committee for the North and South American zone competitions, leading up to the American final, May 25, 26 and 27, also were made public today. Sites for most of the matches were not named, but the dates tentatively selected for the North American zone were: United States vs. Mexico at Mexico City, May 5, 6 and 7; Cuba vs. Canada, April 28, 29, 30 if played in Cuba, or May 11, 12, 13 if played in Canada; North American final, May 18, 19, 20, somewhere in the United States.

In the South American zone Chile and Brazil will meet in the first round March 31, April 1, 2; the winner will meet Uruguay, and Peru will play Argentina in the second round. The final of the zone final will be contested April 8, 9 and 10.

BRANCH RICKY NAMES NEW ELMIRA MANAGER

By the Associated Press.

ELMIRA, N. Y., March 20.—The appointment of Bobby Rice as manager of the Elmira Red Wings in the New York-Penn. Baseball League was announced last night by Branch Rickey, vice-president of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Rice managed the Keokuk, Ia., club in the Mississippi Valley League last year. He is a playing manager, and will man third base. He succeeds Clay Hopper as manager.

COFFMAN AND HEBERT HOLD HOUSE OF DAVID BATTERS TO ONE HIT

By James M. Gould.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 20.—Informed today that Rick Ferrell, his only holdout, had announced he would come here for a salary conference, President Phil Ball of the Browns said: "Of course, I will talk with Ferrell but if he signs it will be at the club's terms, not his." Ferrell is expected to arrive tomorrow.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 20.—It would be hard to ask more of a team than that, in its first exhibition game of the season, it held its opponents scoreless and almost helpless and played sufficient punch to win impressively. That about sums up what the Browns did yesterday in defeating a by-no-means weak House of David team, 3-0.

It may have been the presence of Owner Ball or the return to active duty of Manager Bill Killefer; but whatever the reason, the Browns played snappy ball, while their two pitchers, Dick Coffman and Wally Hebert, allowed only one man to reach first.

As a matter of fact, Hebert, pitching five innings, retired all 15 men he faced while Coffman "forgot himself" just once and in the second inning permitted Right Fielder Bennett of the whiskered team to single to left. Mr. Bennett, therefore, earned for himself a dash of fame by being the first man of his team to see first all afternoon. It may be added, first is all he did see, as two were out at the time he hit safely and the next man was easy.

Browns Play Errorless Ball. So much for the defense of the Browns, who, in the field, played errorlessly in handling 33 chances. The House of David team used an underhand pitcher named James who had plenty besides his whiskers. This James hailed from Orchard Farm, Mo., had traveled two days on a bus to get here and had had no preliminary work. He ought to be a great pitcher when he gets in shape, as for three innings he had the Browns pretty well buffaloed, holding them to one hit for three innings.

In the last five innings Killefer, who had pitched for the Browns for a total of nine, it was significant that of these nine hits two were doubles and two triples. There were several very pleasing things about the first game. The defense, one of the things admitted by experts that the Browns were sure to have, was very much present and there wasn't the sign of an error. Then Coffman and Hebert fulfilled the promise of the Campbells, each of the things admitted by experts that the Browns were sure to have, was very much present and there wasn't the sign of an error. Then Coffman and Hebert fulfilled the promise of the Campbells, each of the things admitted by experts that the Browns were sure to have, was very much present and there wasn't the sign of an error.

With Coffman and Hebert mowing down the opposition in almost monotonous fashion, something had to happen to break the deadlock and it did in the fourth. Campbell blasted a triple to far center field and he scored while Jack Burns shot a double between the first baseman and first base.

The St. Louis attack subsided until the sixth when Garmes, subbing for West in center, singled and he scored while Jack Burns' infield out and score. When Campbell doubled to center, it was Garmes who scored the third and final run. He led off in the eighth with a single, went to second on Gullicks sacrifice, and scored.

PHILADELPHIA, March 20.—Michael L. Drennan, the scout whose keen eyes put the "okeh" on many of the players who made up the Philadelphia Athletics' championship teams of 1929, 1930 and 1931, died suddenly yesterday. He was 61. For more than 20 years Drennan served as a scout for the Athletics and became known to baseball men in almost every city and town where a league team existed.

There probably never was a horse, not even Twenty Grand, Man O'War or Whisk Broom II (which was timed in 2:00 minutes flat) that was faster than the victory of the stretch-runner was due not to a real increase in speed on his part, but to the diminution of speed on the part of his more tired rivals. A sturdy horse, maintaining a nearly level pace, will seem to be running wild in the stretch. But it is the slowing down of his competitors' pace that creates the impression.

There probably never was a horse, not even Twenty Grand, Man O'War or Whisk Broom II (which was timed in 2:00 minutes flat) that was faster than the victory of the stretch-runner was due not to a real increase in speed on his part, but to the diminution of speed on the part of his more tired rivals. A sturdy horse, maintaining a nearly level pace, will seem to be running wild in the stretch. But it is the slowing down of his competitors' pace that creates the impression.

Tulsa Defeated Tabor and McPherson Prove Stars

By W. J. McGowan.

Coach Albert Hughes and his St. Louis Cardinals are leading in the playoff series for the national championship today after defeating Tulsa last night. The victory, following Kansas City, Saturday night, gives the Cardinals a total of seven goals. Each of the other teams has one goal.

As total goals scored count at the end of the six-game series if two teams are tied in games won, it would be seen that the Cardinals are in a strong position. St. Louis plays at Tulsa next Saturday night, with the final game scheduled for Kansas City March 27, if that game should be necessary.

Meantime Tulsa plays at Kansas City Wednesday and at Tulsa on Thursday.

The Cardinals will do little or no work this week before departing for Tulsa, probably Thursday, for there will be no place for them to train. The ice will be taken off the arena floor today. The rest, however, may be just what they need, as they will have 60 strenuous minutes of hockey they were forced to play last night.

It was a typical St. Louis-Tulsa game, starting out as though it would wind up in a free-for-all fight, due to the iron hand with which the referees ruled, finishing up all right.

In the first period there were nine penalties assessed, five against St. Louis and four against Tulsa, but after that the players were more careful and Tulsa got by without penalty, while St. Louis suffered two in the second period and four in the third.

Young I. Tabor and Alex McPherson displayed the scoring honors, Tabor scoring two goals, one unassisted, while McPherson scored one, assisted on another. George Massey counted the other, while

St. Louis Scores Twice in St. Period; 4945

It was seldom during the period that both teams were at full strength, but Glibbo had just finished a two-minute rest in the cooler and was back in the play when Bostrom broke through the St. Louis defense and passed to Les Jasek, Tulsa's only score at the 17:30 mark.

Manager Bill Killefer returned to duty after 10 days of inaction. While he stayed in Tulsa, he directed the play. Dr. Robert F. Hyland, club physician, arrived yesterday morning and took charge of Killefer, ankle and all. He will stay here for some days.

Today the grind of practice will be resumed. Tomorrow the Browns will be further tested in a game against the Brooklyn Dodgers in Miami.

Both these games were rolled at Toledo, O.

Oscar Whitehead, St. Louis, smashed out a score of 279. Whitehead had the spectators gasping as he plucked off nine strikes, a spare and then another strike.

Shumping in his two remaining games, Whitehead failed to land a place in the money divisions of the tournament.

Ahrbeck, who has competed in 20 A. B. C. tournaments, scored 212, 220 and 228 in the team event, scored 240, 234 and 233 in the doubles and followed with games of 192, 195 and 235 in the singles. He averaged 217 for the nine games.

ROBBERS GET $200 IN SPITE OF TEAR GAS

Watchman Smelling Fumes, Finds Safe Hammered Open and Looted.

A bottle of tear gas, arranged to be broken when a safe at the Yul-Favorit Cake Co., 1436 Oxford street, was opened, failed to deter burglars who hammered the safe open last night. The burglars took $200. A fireman employed by the company smelled the tear gas and found the safe open. The burglars had entered through a second floor window after climbing onto a shed back of the building.

After stealing four leather shopping bags and a fountain pen set from the Henry Hotz & Sons Co., a leather goods concern at 219 Chestnut street, a burglar scribbled on a box, with red crayon, "I am sorry. Please forgive me as I did not have the money. I have only taken four and your pen. Don't get sore. I'd like to know you."

Combinations were hammered off at DeTonty street, routed two men who attempted to hold him up in front of 4200 Chippewa street early today. Boonshaft, who was not armed, was assisting a young woman from his automobile when the robbers, with hands in their pockets as if on weapons, demanded his money. He struck one man in the face, while the other principal man exchanged blows, the other grabbed the keys from the automobile. Both then fled. One key was for police patrol boxes.

Raymond Hester, operator of a one-man Bellefontaine street car, was held up at the loop at Michigan avenue and Primus street by two armed men who took $20. Miss Ann Hester, 24, 2500 East Steins street, was walking near Idaho avenue and Haven street when two men snatched her purse. It contained $5.

'SPIRIT OF ST. LOUIS' PLANE NAMED BY HAROLD M. BIXBY

Col. Lindbergh in Letter to Mrs. Beauregard Gives Credit to One of His Backers.

The question of who named the Spirit of St. Louis has been settled by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in a letter to Mrs. Nettie Beauregard, curator and archivist of Missouri Historical Society.

The name was suggested by Harold M. Bixby, former head of the Chamber of Commerce and one of Lindbergh's backers on the historic flight to Paris, the aviator wrote. Mrs. Beauregard had asked him to clarify conflicting reports of its origin.

A silver loving cup, the gift of the Missouri Society of Washington, D. C., was presented by former Congressman Cleveland A. Newton and added to the Lindbergh trophy display at Jefferson Memorial.

Illinois Roadhouse Owner Sues Robinson, Ill., March 20.—Byrd Duncan, 37 years old, a roadhouse proprietor of Flatwoods, died yesterday of a bullet wound inflicted, officers said, by Gene Applegate of Pinksaid. Applegate is held in jail here. The shooting, officers said, resulted from attention to the slain man was alleged to have paid the prisoner's wife.

RICHARD JORDAN COMPTON DIES AT HOME IN KIRKWOOD

Former Secretary of Lithographing and Engraving Company Victim of Kidney Disease.

Richard Jordan Compton, former secretary of the Compton & Sons Lithographing & Engraving Co., died early today of a kidney disease at his residence, 405 East Adams avenue, Kirkwood.

Mr. Compton, who was 70 years old and widely known in the community, had been in failing health for several years. He retired from the lithographing firm in 1921 and was a director of the Kirkwood Building & Loan Association. Besides his widow, Mrs. Cornelia Ashworth Compton, he is survived by three sons, Richard Jr., Britton A., and Houston L. Compton, and two daughters, Mrs. John Walter Barrett and Mrs. David Carter Cummings.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Grace Episcopal Church, Kirkwood. Burial will take place in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

CHAPLAIN OF U. S. SENATE CONDUCTS SERVICES HERE

The Rev. Dr. Phillips to Preach Five Sermons at Christ Church Cathedral.

The Rev. Dr. Phillips, T. Phillips, rector of the Church of the Epiphany in Washington, and chaplain of the United States Senate, today began a series of five noonday Lenten sermons at Christ Church Cathedral. Dr. Phillips preached yesterday at St. Peter's Episcopal Church, of which he was formerly rector.

He will conduct the duty of official chaplains to pray for the President and the country, "but it is the duty of all the people to pray for the country," he said.

Miss Marie Hansen, cashier at Fink's Cafeteria, 1630 St. Charles street, was held up early today by a Negro who said, "I've been watching you. I want that money you've been putting in your bag." She gave him a cigar box containing $13.

Melvin Boonshaft, a licensed private watchman residing at 1227 DeTonty street, routed two men who attempted to hold him up in front of 4200 Chippewa street early today. Boonshaft, who was not armed, was assisting a young woman from his automobile when the robbers, with hands in their pockets as if on weapons, demanded his money. ## WOMAN DRYS PLAN TO TAKE FIGHT ON BEER TO STATES

Leaders in Washington Announce Campaign for 'Revolution' Against Legislation for Its Sale.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 20.—Two women prohibition leaders have issued statements to the effect that women intended to "plan a revolution" against beer legislation in the states.

Mrs. Henry W. Peabody, chairman of the Woman's National Committee for Law Enforcement, declared a "revolution" already was "under way in 20 states." She asserted that the beer bill now before Congress would "nullify the eighteenth amendment."

Mrs. F. L. Johnson, vice-chairman-at-large for the same organization, reported she had been holding a series of meetings with women in 24 states and had found that "the hypnotic - hysteria superinduced largely by highly paid brewery propaganda, prior and subsequent to the Chicago convention, is beginning to abate."

Mrs. Johnson declared "the womanhood of the Far West and Midwest is rubbing its eyes and getting into action," and that some were "declaring themselves ready to picket State lines," and "one large group has taken as its secret slogan—'Beer to Blood.'"

Mrs. Peabody announced that the annual convention of her organization would be held here from April 12 to 14, the main purpose of which would be "not to pass resolutions but to plan a revolution."

Her statement follows in part: "Shall the Government enter on a nationwide scheme of bootlegging to increase its revenue? This is the purpose of the beer bill. Women meet to protest.

"This convention for law enforcement is of greatest importance. For the first time in American history Congress, elected by the people and sworn to support and defend the Constitution, threatens to defy the supreme law and nullify the eighteenth amendment, which declares that intoxicating liquor shall not be manufactured, sold or transported for beverage purposes.

"Four per cent beer is intoxicating, according to the highest authorities in Europe and America. To sell such liquor to children as proposed in this bill is a crime authorized by a government apparently in league with brewers and preparing to enter on a vast Government bootlegging plan as an aid to taxes and prosperity. For lawmakers to vote for this bill or to sign it is perjury.

"The main object of this woman's convention is not to pass resolutions but to plan a revolution, already under way in 20 states. The convention will also consider the method of repeal of the eighteenth amendment in states.

"The American Brewers' Association, convicted by the Overman investigation in 1919, has won in Congress. Will the states yield?"

"Women and children, two-thirds of the people, forgotten by the majority of the lawmakers, are without representation or defense against this evil.

"Loyal women trusting in God declare the saloon shall not return."

26 CANDIDATES FILE IN UNIVERSITY CITY

Four Out for Mayor—Civic Voter's League Opposes Ruth.

Twenty-six candidates will run for Mayor, Marshal, Collector and for three places on the Board of Aldermen in University City at the municipal election April 4. Saturday was last filing day for candidates.

Four candidates have filed for Mayor: Eugene D. Ruth Jr., incumbent; David L. Miller, Charles F. Gauen and Walter A. Hays. Ruth's chief opposition for re-election is coming from the Civic Voters' League, which has placed a complete slate of candidates in the field.

The League was organized before the election a year ago and succeeded in placing all three of its candidates on the Board of Aldermen on a platform of opposition to Mayor Ruth. Last year's chief issue was over the ousting of City Marshal George F. Ward as Police Commissioner. The league supported Ward then and is backing him now in his race for re-election as Marshal. He is opposed by Bert Bellville, the present Police Commissioner. The office of Marshal pays only $1 a year unless supplemented by the commissioner's salary.

Save for the League's slate, all other candidates are running independently. For Collector, the league is supporting William Steele, incumbent. Other candidates are Robert D. Estes, Edwin J. Maruska, A. Sidney Autenrieth, Edward Weber and Michael B. Scanlon.

League candidates for Aldermen are: First Ward, Andrew J. Havertick; Second Ward, Herman Marken; Third Ward, Dr. Rudolph C. Selbert, a dentist. Other candidates: First Ward, Earl Q. Smith, Edward Closs, Walter C. Persons, Henry E. Moore and Lawrence J. Horan; Second Ward, Joseph Boxerman, Mrs. Francis Dean and Jacob F. Hellrung Jr.; Third Ward, Norman J. Sutter, Dr. Arthur P. Thurnsby and Samuel Hill.

Primary Elections in Webster Groves and Maplewood. Twenty-three candidates in Maplewood and 14 in Webster Groves will seek nomination for Mayor and for three places on the City Council of each town at primary elections tomorrow. Voters will select two candidates for each office, to oppose each other in general elections April 4.

In Webster Groves, Mayor John B. Chapman and Councilman Edwin F. Chapman, Berton Forester and T. Herbert Heath have filed to succeed themselves. Other candidates for Mayor are Herman Schwarz and Oliver J. Miller and for Councilman, Lee J. Havener, Philip O. Viall, William F. Camp, Frank R. McMath, Herbert de Staebler, P. R. Goodenough, James E. Holland and James S. Leakey.

Mayor Charles S. Humphreys and Councilmen Fred E. Heldemann and Lee Wilson of Maplewood are seeking renomination. The third incumbent Councilman, Frank L. Martina, has filed for nomination for Mayor. Other candidates for Mayor: John D. Feis, J. L. Johnson, and Edward W. Spreen; for Councilman, R. W. Bromley, Harry Brockman, Joe Carr, A. Stratford Fuller, Oscar E. Hegstrom, R. T. Kalb, Edwin V. Kelly, Charles M. Livingston, Harry G. McClure, Rolin J. Minges, Tom C. Rose, L. M. Ruck, Udell Thompson, Gilbert Wherry, Edward G. Maguire and Thomas F. Durkin.

Worry in Europe.
$250,000,000 Quickly.
Foolish Education.
A Case for Euripides.

By Arthur Brisbane.

(Copyright, 1933.)
FRANCE, worried about the imitation Mussolini in Germany, and by the hostility of the real Mussolini, faces an extra complication, a serious adverse trade balance, amounting to more than 2-000,000,000 francs for the first two months of this year, with imports increasing.

That sort of trade must eventually mean loss in gold reserves.

France knows what it is to suffer debt repudiation on a big scale. For years patriotic Frenchmen and women invested their savings in Russian bonds. Russia was the friend and ally of France. Friendship must be appreciated. That friendly impulse has cost the French people in hard cash more than $5,000,000,000, due to Soviet repudiation of Czarist obligations.
This amounts to more than half the billions the United States will probably lose in Europe.

Britain grows daily more angry and anxious in connection with the imprisonment of four Englishmen accused of sabotage in Moscow.
The charge is that they sought to ruin the Soviet's $100,000,000 investment in the Dnieprostroi dam completed last May.

The firm employing the imprisoned Englishmen supplied steel for a gigantic turbo-generator at the dam, and the blades of the turbines, made of the hardest steel, are found badly corroded. Russia says the Englishmen poured sand or acid upon them.

The British Ambassador is not allowed to see the prisoners and their friends fear they may be compelled by third degree brutality to confess guilt which is not real.
British correspondents in Russia doubt that Stalin would permit an error so serious and brutal.
Europe's peace hopes are not improved by that complication.

Abram Fitkin, successful business man and philanthropist, just dead, reminds you that this is the country of opportunity. He started as a preacher, decided that others could do that work better than he, went into business, beginning in earnest in 1912. Eighteen years later he had made TWO HUNDRED AND FIFTY MILLION DOLLARS.
Such great fortunes may be wrong but probably are not. Whatever you make you leave behind. The average white man wants unnecessary millions as a reward for hard work. The average savage in Africa wants many unnecessary fat wives as a reward for fighting lions. It is wise to give each savage the reward that he demands, and thus secure for the community the best work that is in him.

The Harvard Teachers' Association has examinations for admission to colleges and school examinations generally, are based on a false system. Dean Holmes usefully pricked one foolish educational bubble, denying that "all study trains minds." At least half the study in preparatory schools, high schools and colleges, stupefies minds of boys and girls.

A father asks some learned pedagogue, "Why do you waste a boy's few years of study and good memory on things that will be of no use to 99 out of 100—Greek, Latin, mathematics?" He is told, "Any kind of studious concentration TRAINS THE MIND."

That reply might be made by a Mohammedan pedagogue compelling boys to waste brains and memory learning the Koran by heart.
Waste in education is as stupid as other waste. When he is 10 years out of college, the average boy knows his A. B. C.'s, the multiplication table, and not much else, except vaguely.

Our whole educational system is only one short step ahead of the Mohammedan teacher sitting on his platform, with a long bamboe rod in his hand to hit the head of any boy reciting incorrectly.

Men applying for jobs hereafter may be tested by a machine that discs whether the person tested is of the "obsessional type," or of the "median, normal type." The machine is used by some employing corporation and by a branch of the T. M. C. A. in New York City.
The man tested holds an electronically wired pencil and is expected to touch certain dots or perforations as they appear on the machine. The decision of the machine is said to be remarkably exact. It was suggested by British psychologists and perfected by the Western

AMATEUR SLEUTH WHO GOT HIS MAN

This is Gus Jankowski, of Rochester, N. Y., photographed in his make-up which included an actor's mustache and goatee, sun, glasses, and sport cap, worn when he searched for man who had swindled him out of quite a sum of money. He found him.

The HUSBAND CAMPAIGN

By Anne Gardner

CHAPTER TWENTY-FIVE

PAUL GRAFTON picked up with curiosity the soiled, creased envelope marked "Personal," which Miss Milton had placed quite separate from the opened business letters. It was seldom that he had any personal mail and never any mail that looked like this.

Inside was a fantastically typed note on plain paper, and it read, "Dear Sir: Would you still like to see how to find the girl you were looking for? She works at Harkness bookstore 57 street, A friend."

"The girl," puzzled Paul. "What in Heaven's name?"

Girl, of course—Cinderella! The long desired clue, in his hands in this queer note! Could it be true? Could it really be Josephine to whom this note referred? Josephine in a bookstore?

He had somehow associated her with something more dangerous and exciting than book selling, that eminently staid occupation. And of course the note might be some body's idea of a practical joke. There was obviously only one thing for him to do—go see for himself.

Josephine, her back toward the entrance of the store, was perusing new books on the "Late Fiction" rack. She loved the colorful jackets and she liked, too, to slip them off for a glimpse of the handsome cloth beneath. She was very much absorbed in this when a voice at her shoulder said:

"I beg your pardon, but do you happen to have a book on the story of Cinderella?"

Her heart stopped beating, for she knew the voice. Slowly she turned her head, while the blood flooded her cheeks, her forehead dyed even the whiteness of her neck.

"Paul!"

"Cinderella! Or would you prefer to be called Josephine?"

THEY looked long at one another. Paul had changed in the time—how long it seemed—since Josephine had seen him. He looked bigger, broader, older, healthier. But his smile was the same, the blue eyes which looked so directly, which inspired such confidence.

Josephine's fingers touched his sleeve ever so lightly. "It is you. You are real, Paul!"

"Paul, too, was checking the presence of Josephine against his memory of the mysterious visitor to the tower, and the lovely apparition of the park bench. He saw the same vivid lips and cheeks, the sparkling eyes.

"So this is your dark secret!" Paul said at last with pretended severity. "I don't know whether to be glad that I've found you at last or cross with you because you didn't let me know where you were months ago."

"I wasn't here months ago, before that I couldn't get in touch with you. And after I came here—well—"

"Well? You have a great deal to answer for, young lady."

"Well, I thought—Josephine now was beginning to regain her composure—her excited heart was beating less rapidly—"that if you really wanted to find me, you would."

"Josephine! Was that friendly? Was that fair? I've been looking for you ever since you failed me that time, but you wouldn't occur to me to canvass the bookstores."

"All the time?"

"With time only for eating and sleeping."

"How did you find me finally?"

Be SMART in a new SWAGGER COAT HEALTH

Left, gray is the outstanding new color of this season. This gray sporter sports coat is a costly looking basket weave wool, with self scarf that fastens with silvery steel buckles. It has a tremendous steel buckle that gives individuality to the belt. Center, the broad-shouldered, slim-hipped silhouette is achieved in the double-breasted and full-sleeved coat of roughish plaid back fabric in monotone coloring. The scarf of plaid is self-trimmed, adding a brilliant modern note. Right, something new in revers and full sleeves recommend a Scotch plaid-back wool with the new nubby surface that gives it a staunch mannish look.

SMART spring coats are rightly called "swagger coats" this year. Swagger abounds in them. Their new rough materials have new and lovely weaves—grand nubby monotonous, Scotch plaids, pin checks, basket weaves and diamond diagonals, all with style in their makeup. Their style gives verve to the woman wearing them. Their colors are stimulating and zestful.

Whether it's a coat you want—any length will do, though the full-length is most becoming to the majority of women—or whether it's a cape you have set your heart on, the new spring topplings have swagger in them.

Whether it's a matter of set-in-sleeves, new tight-to-the-neck collars, swanky buttons and buckles, jaunty scarves or tremendous patch pockets, whether there is a detachable cape or a convertible rever that turns into a chin-high collar, if the weather demands—whatever the distinctive thing is about a given new coat, there's a swagger in the way it is presented.

Colors range from the favorites, blue and black, to gray, beige, brown and even pastel tones of green and blue. Some of the new reverts are smartly double-breasted. Others simply fasten tightly under the throat and land or flare. Sleeves are both set-in and raglan, though set-in ones predominate. Some are straight and loose, others taper to a tight cuff, still others have added cuffs with detail and flare. Some flaunt fullness and are particularly becoming on tall girls of lean build.

The new fabrics are the high fashion point this year. There's a staunch Scotch or English look to the new tweeds, with novelty weaves, in rough surfaces. Beiges and browns have a soft leather look by the addition of weaves that resemble leather.

Belgians and browns have a soft leather look by the addition of weaves that resemble leather. Everything clear to you now, kid? "Too damn clear," I lamented, being filled with concern for a woman I had never seen and of whom until today I had never heard. "And now this little woman loses her husband and she loses the money and he has thrown his life away for nothing and worse than nothing."

"Wait a minute," the detective said almost roughly. "You've got a family of your own, haven't you?" "Yes," I said, "a wife and one child."

"You're a piker. Me, I've got four kids and a fifth expected almost any time now. Well, Mrs. Holt is going to have a kid, too, in a few months. That's what I got, pumping the nurse. . . . And aside from her own private feelings in the matter, when that kid comes, I take it to be only human nature and mother-love and the like to want to pass along to the kid a nice memory of a fine daddy, and him with a good clean name and no blot on it. . . . And, say, boy, these have big insurance companies have plenty of jack to slather on fine buildings and the likes, haven't they? . . . And any other what kind of a job would I be to go showing up Cronin and that other bull for a couple of dummies? I don't care so much for my partner, but Cronin is a good guy, although thick. . . . Well, when I said this case was all washed up, I meant all washed up."

I stood up and took off my hat and I stretched forth an arm, and for the second time within a quarter-hour or less I detected myself in the act of solemnly shaking hands with Sergeant Pat Brady.

"You may be kissing a good chance for promotion, goodbyes," I said almost roughly. "You've got a family of your own, haven't you?" "Yes," I said, "a wife and one child."

AS PLAIN AS PRINT -- By IRVIN S. COBB

"YOU and me hadn't been in that house five minutes before somehow the thing began to look phony to me. Yes, and small phony. Those tracks, now: There were too many of them in one place and not enough of them in another. What I mean, the floor inside was all littered up with unnecessary footprints, but coming up on the porch there was only one set and they came on practically a dead straight line from the top step to the window at the far end. Unless the party that wore those overshoes knew beforehand which window was unlocked, why didn't he stop first and give the other window—the one that was closer to him—a try? Another thing, there was too much mud slopped around shoes got their muddying-up. The right color for swamp mud. Swamp mud is liable to be blackish mucky stuff and this mud was mostly yellow-clay subsoil with maybe a little loam mixed in with it. Remember my messing with the hydrant in the back yard? Well, right there was where those overshoes got their muddying-up. But even before I ever monkeyed with that hydrant I was already as good as convinced that I had the rights of it. Know what the convict was? Why, Trizie. Did you ever know a terrier that wouldn't start snarling and growling and yapping—especially yapping—if she smelled a stranger in the house at night? Don't you know—if you know anything about dogs—that no matter how well-trained Trizie might have been or, ordinarily, the instant she got a whiff of somebody prowling downstairs, she'd have broken out of her boss' control and started in raring the roof? And Mrs. Holt didn't hear a sound from Trizie before she shot. And McGee didn't hear a sound from Trizie. There's only one answer—there wasn't anybody in that house for Trizie to bark at."

"Still and even so, you want to absolutely clinch a think like this, that was why I craved those overshoes. They had to be close by somewhere. There wasn't time to carry them off very far, so they had to be close by. And when that kid brought 'em to me awhile ago, I was ready for him. Remember when I went back inside the house, last time to some 'phoning? Well, I phoned all right but I did something else. I knelt down by Holt and I took my penknife and I scraped some of the blacking off the toes of his shoes—he wore black low quarters, if you remember, and they'd been shined not later than yesterday, I figured. He was the dresdy kind that would likely get thing else. And I found out something on the side. I got that from the nurse. I talked with her a minute while I was upstairs there. "It was what I found out myself that made me wish out loud—you heard me, I guess—made me wish I could be two-three places at once, the same as one of these here East Indian praying guys. But I didn't need to worry because, as it turned out, I got hold of my sidekick at the Bureau, Cal Smiley, and got him to get busy downtown and he handled those two loose ends in jig time—first at old Percy Hume's office on Broad street and then up at the Cosmopolitan Life Building on Nineteenth street. You see," he explained painstakingly, "it's not enough that you should know how a thing like this has been done. You've got to know why it was done or you're leaving the job only half finished."

"And why was this thing done after this case, involved, and about fashion?" I demanded, breaking silence at last. "If Holt meant to kill himself why didn't he go ahead without all this mess, protesting his wife and his home, and taking and just do it?"

"Don't crowd me," protested Brady. "I'll be through in a minute. First place, Holt was desperate. He was in debt—and he'd been drinking. He was shy at his bank. There was a pocketbook in his coat upstairs and there was a notice of an overdraft in his pocketbook. He was about to lose his job with Hume. I can't prove that, although I'm morally sure of it from what Cal Smiley heard. He had pride and he loved to make a flash, loved to show off. He loved his wife, too, last he had a kind of funny way of showing he loved her but that's between him and his Maker, now. He loved her so much he didn't want her to think he was a quitter. I figure he wanted she should think of him afterwards as a game man, that went out doing a game thing, protecting his wife and his home, and taking and just do it."

"But the biggest reason of all, I'd say, was because he wanted to leave a cold $300,000 in life insurance for her to live on. He took out a policy for that much money almost, but not quite a year ago. How do I know that? Because I found a notice in his pocket calling for a premium payment on the first of October and that's less than three weeks off. And here's what Smiley dug up for me at the company: That policy had an anti-suicide clause in it. If Holt, inside of two years from the time he got insured, killed himself in cold blood, the company wouldn't have to pay. But if everybody was convinced that sure one swell break of luck for all concerned. Because it so happens that I happened to know the last residence address of the late lamented Deafy Keogh. And Cal Smiley knows it, and along about now—"he took out his watch. "Yes, just about now he's acting on my tip and passing the word out down at headquarters. And any minute cops will be hustling into this immediate vicinity and they'll be busting into Deafy Keogh's top floor flat, half a block up this same street from where we sit and what do you suppose they'll discover there?"

"They'll discover there amongst his personal effects a certain pair of diamond-bottomed overshoes right where Deafy must have left 'em when he came hustling back, red-handed and hot-footed, from killing this poor Mr. Holt at a point not four miles from here, and then went out again to hunt a new hiding-place, and got himself bumped off. 'Twill do Deafy's reputation no harm, him being dead and gone. In fact, with Deafy's kind it'll help it some."

"He winked at me, and a trigger mechanism which operated a dropped curtain, the mask of cold-blooded professional cynicism hid his face. . . . hiding too, the inner soul of the man behind me. I once more saw the seasoned policeman, cold-blooded and skeptical and compassionate."

"Maybe," said this policeman, "maybe before we call it a day, I should be passing the word along to Cronin and his pal that they could ease up a bit on the gal over at their precinct. She should be feeling fairly jumpy by now. But what the hell it might do her good. They say bounding a party about in fine for the liver."

(THE END).

HE winked and grinned. "The department comes out grand," he said. "And instead of pounding up poor cops the papers are going to be smearing 'Finger of Fate' and 'Hand of Nemesis' and the likes of such swell language all over their front pages, else I miss my guess. That piece in the Evening Journal you showed me back at the garage—the one about Deafy Keogh getting bumped off early this morning—do you mind that piece? It said in it, 'address unknown.' Well, that was

HEALTH

Brief articles prepared by experts. Edited by Dr. Tago Galdston, for the New York
Academy of Medicine.

Improved Milk
MILK has been called a perfect food and for a time this statement remained unchallenged.

However as our nutritional studies advanced, numerous scientists arose to challenge this claim and today we find that the statements as to the food values of milk are qualified.

Instead of milk being designated as the perfect food, it is now briefly called the "most nearly perfect food," or more elaborately and more descriptively, "the most efficient of all foods in making good the deficiencies of grains and in insuring
the allround adequacy of the diet."

Milk contains high quality proteins, and is rich in mineral elements and certain vitamins. It processes carbohydrates and fats, which are readily utilized by the body.

Despite all this, it is not possible to rear a mammal from infancy through adulthood on whole cows milk alone. For milk lacks certain essential mineral substances and is insufficient in certain important vitamins.

Milk, for example, is relatively poor in iron and is also deficient in copper. Both of these minerals are essential in the formation of hemoglobin, the red coloring matter of the blood.

The infant can thrive on milk because it starts out in life with a relatively rich reserve of iron in its body, but nutritional anemia will follow if the infant's diet is not supplemented with iron-containing foods, and if it is kept too long upon an exclusive milk diet.

In the light of this deficiency, experimental attempts have been made to add traces of iron, copper and other essential minerals to milk. Experimental animals have been fed on this mineralized milk with satisfactory results.

It may be possible safely to mineralize milk intended for human consumption. When this is achieved, milk will become still more a "most nearly perfect food."

Suggestion
THE world in general and psychiatry in particular owe a great debt to Mesmer, the Viennese.
For it was Mesmer who, through his mesmerism or, as it is descendant was in later days called, hypotism, brought to our attention the power of suggestion and its role in abnormal psychologic and psy-chologic conditions.

The road traveled in the apperception of the power of suggestion has been long and devious, but it started with Mesmer and his successor, the hypnotist, and has led to the illumination which it casts on the relation of the mind to the body.

Many scientists have devoted years to the study of suggestion, but not always in the form of hypotism.

The great Russian physiologist
Pavlov, through his work on conditioned reflexes, has extended the sphere of suggestion and has demonstrated that the spoken word can act as a highly powerful external stimulus, producing extraordinary physiologic effects.

Scientists whose names are famous in the annals of neurology and psychiatry have demonstrated for example, that profound circulatory disturbances can be induced by speech.

It is reported that in Russia Dr.
Finne was able in the presence of a group of physicians to provoke by verbal suggestion the formation in a patient of a blistered, second degree burn.

Others, says reports, were able to induce in patients by the process of suggestion disturbances in circulation, changes in temperature, eruptions and other abnormal changes.

The individual who blushes when embarrassed or who develops red patches when excited, or who grows excessively pale or flushed, is in a milder degree manifesting comparable types of reactions.

The true significance of these experiments lies in the light they shed upon the relation of the nervous system to body function.

An Attractive Mantle
Don't crowd a number of articles on the mantle and create a littered effect. A clock with canisters on either side is enough. A fine pic-

TODAY'S PATTERN

For Mornings
WOULD you want anything lovelier, more refreshing or smarter to lighten household hours, than the attractive frock sketched today? You'll be intrigued with the reverse, one of self fabric and one of contrast, for they're a bit unusual, likewise the comfortable sleeves and simple skirt seamings. See small view for one of Fashion's little tricks. Choose a neat and sprightly cotton print.

Pattern 2566 may be ordered only in sizes 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50, 52,
54, 56, 58, 60, 62, 64, 66, 68, 70, 72,
74, 76, 78, 80, 82, 84, 86, 88, 90, 92,
94, 96, 98, 100. Size 16 requires 3 1/2 yards 36-inch fabric and 1/2 yard contrasting. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included with this pattern.

"Mickey Mouse," says an editorial, "has no rival as a source of amusement in these troubled times."

A broad statement like that must make Huey Long boil.

The editorial writer might have been careful enough to say that "Mickey Mouse and Hitler's mustache have only Huey Long as a rival in these troubled times."

All's Right With the World

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer.

Our keyhole astronomer in Europe still has his ear to the putting green.

He announces that all wars have been postponed by mutual consent and anemia.

That old Jingo song about having the men, the fleet and the money no longer reaches the second chorus. War is expensive delatessen and the glory of winning is diluted by the lack of profit.

The friendliness of the Old World has reached that stage where they are insisting we take three spoonful of sugar to every cup of coffee.

It's amazing but true. Even in Fontaine's widest animal fables he never dreamed of a wolf pack with a Red Cross unit for wounded members.

We may be stretching our optimism on the scale of 10 miles to an inch. But everything looks very serene on a Monday morning and we can almost guarantee permanent peace until the evening papers arrive.

We are washed up with the glory-seeking politician whose patriotic slogan was: "First comes me, then comes me again, then comes my country."

That budget is taking a terrific shellacking on all sides and will soon have a waist line that can be encircled lovingly by the arm of the American taxpayer.

Yessiree, this looks like an administration in which we will get some beneficial legislation and the fishing tackle will rust in the umbrella stand.

3.2 BEER BILL PASSED, GOES TO PRESIDENT TOMORROW

House Gives It Final Approval but Senate, Adjourning Before Vote, Vice-President Is Unable to Sign Today.

FIRST SALE DAY ABOUT APRIL 6 OR 7

Conference Report, as Adopted by Congress, Provides for Wine of Same Alcoholic Content as Brew.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON, Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—The return of legalized beer was postponed another day when the Senate unexpectedly recessed this afternoon before Vice-President Garner had an opportunity to sign the beer bill. A few minutes later the House was adopting the conference report which the Senate adopted yesterday, the bill was signed by Speaker Rainey, and was ready for the signatures of the Vice-President and President, but the Senate had vanished.

Under the rules a presiding officer cannot sign a measure unless the body over which he presides is in session or has previously authorized him to sign. Democratic leaders, for some unexplained reason, failed to take this simple precaution. Consequently, the bill cannot reach the White House before tomorrow afternoon, and beer cannot be placed on sale legally before two weeks from Thursday.

Senate Clears the Way. The way to passage of the measure was cleared yesterday afternoon when the Senate, after more than an hour of bitter wrangling, voted 43 to 36 to adopt the conference report. In so doing, it surmounted the House on the two main points in controversy between the two bodies. It accepted 3.2 per cent as the legal alcoholic content instead of 3.05 per cent, and it abandoned the Borah amendment prohibiting the sale or gift of 3.2 per cent beverages to children under 18 years old.

Opponents of the amendment asserted—and it was generally believed—that Borah's real purpose was to raise a presumption in the bill itself that 3.2 per cent beverages are intoxicating, thus inviting the Supreme Court to declare the measure unconstitutional, as violating the eighteenth amendment. Borah did not deny it. On the contrary, he contended vigorously that 3.2 beverages are intoxicating.

Farclous Discussion. The farclous discussion which preceded adoption of the report by the House drew a striking contrast to yesterday's angry Senate debate. Curiously enough, the only formal speech was made by a prohibitionist—the bone-dry Blanton of Texas. Supporters of the bill and the report showed their contempt for the opposition strength by disdaining to consume any time in speeches.

There was not even a record vote. Indeed, Speaker Rainey put the question and announced the result so rapidly that it was a few seconds before House members appeared to realize that they had finally passed the bill. Then hand-clapping broke out on the floor and in the galleries.

When Representative Cullen, Tammany Democrat, presented the report and announced that the House had an hour in which to debate it, there were immediate cries of "vote, vote" from all parts of the chamber. Cullen explained, however, that he had promised Blanton 15 minutes, and intended to keep his word.

An Ironical Suggestion. "Inasmuch as the gentleman from Texas has never before addressed the House on this subject, I suggest that he be given the whole hour," remarked Britten, Chicago Republican. It was an ironic suggestion, since Blanton has addressed the House on prohibition hundreds of times—probably often more than any other member.

The Texan read a letter which he said came from "a brother of the chemist who discovered the use of helium in dirigibles," in which the writer asserted that scientific tests
